HITLER DEMANDS SEATS IN GERMAN CABINET

CAUSE CELEBRE APPEAL PRIVY COUNCIL DECISION SUNG MAN-CHO WINS MAIN POINT

The appeal to the Privy Council on behalf of Sung Man-cho, the alleged Anarchist revolutionary, against the banishment order made last year by the Governor (H.E. Sir William Peel) and upheld on a habeas corpus application, was withdrawn after one day's hearing on terms mutually agreed upon by counsel.

The effect of the agreement is that Sung's banishment order remains good, but he is free to proceed to any place he chooses outside of Hongkong.

The appeal was opened before the Privy Council on June 27. On the following day it was announced that an agreement had been reached between the parties, and upon certain terms, the appeal was withdrawn.

So far only telegraphic communication of the result has been received in Hongkong, and fuller details are lacking.

Herr Hitler, whose strength is growing and who now seeks a division of power in Germany with Captain von Papen, the Chancellor.

CAN CRISIS BE AVOIDED? HERR VON PAPEN CONFIDENT

Berlin, Aug. 2.
When President Hindenburg returns to Berlin next week, he will be faced by a demand by Herr Hitler, the leader of the Nazi (Fascist) Party, for a reconstruction of the Cabinet.

Herr Hitler's intensive campaign in the last few weeks has resulted in a doubling of the Nazi representation in the Reichstag, holding 230 seats against 110.

Easily the biggest party, the Nazis are demanding a share in the direction of the affairs of the country, and the situation is not without serious possibilities, although the Chancellor, Captain von Papen, seems assured and confident.

BIG GERMAN BANK IN DEFAULT U.S. LOAN PAYMENT NOT MADE.

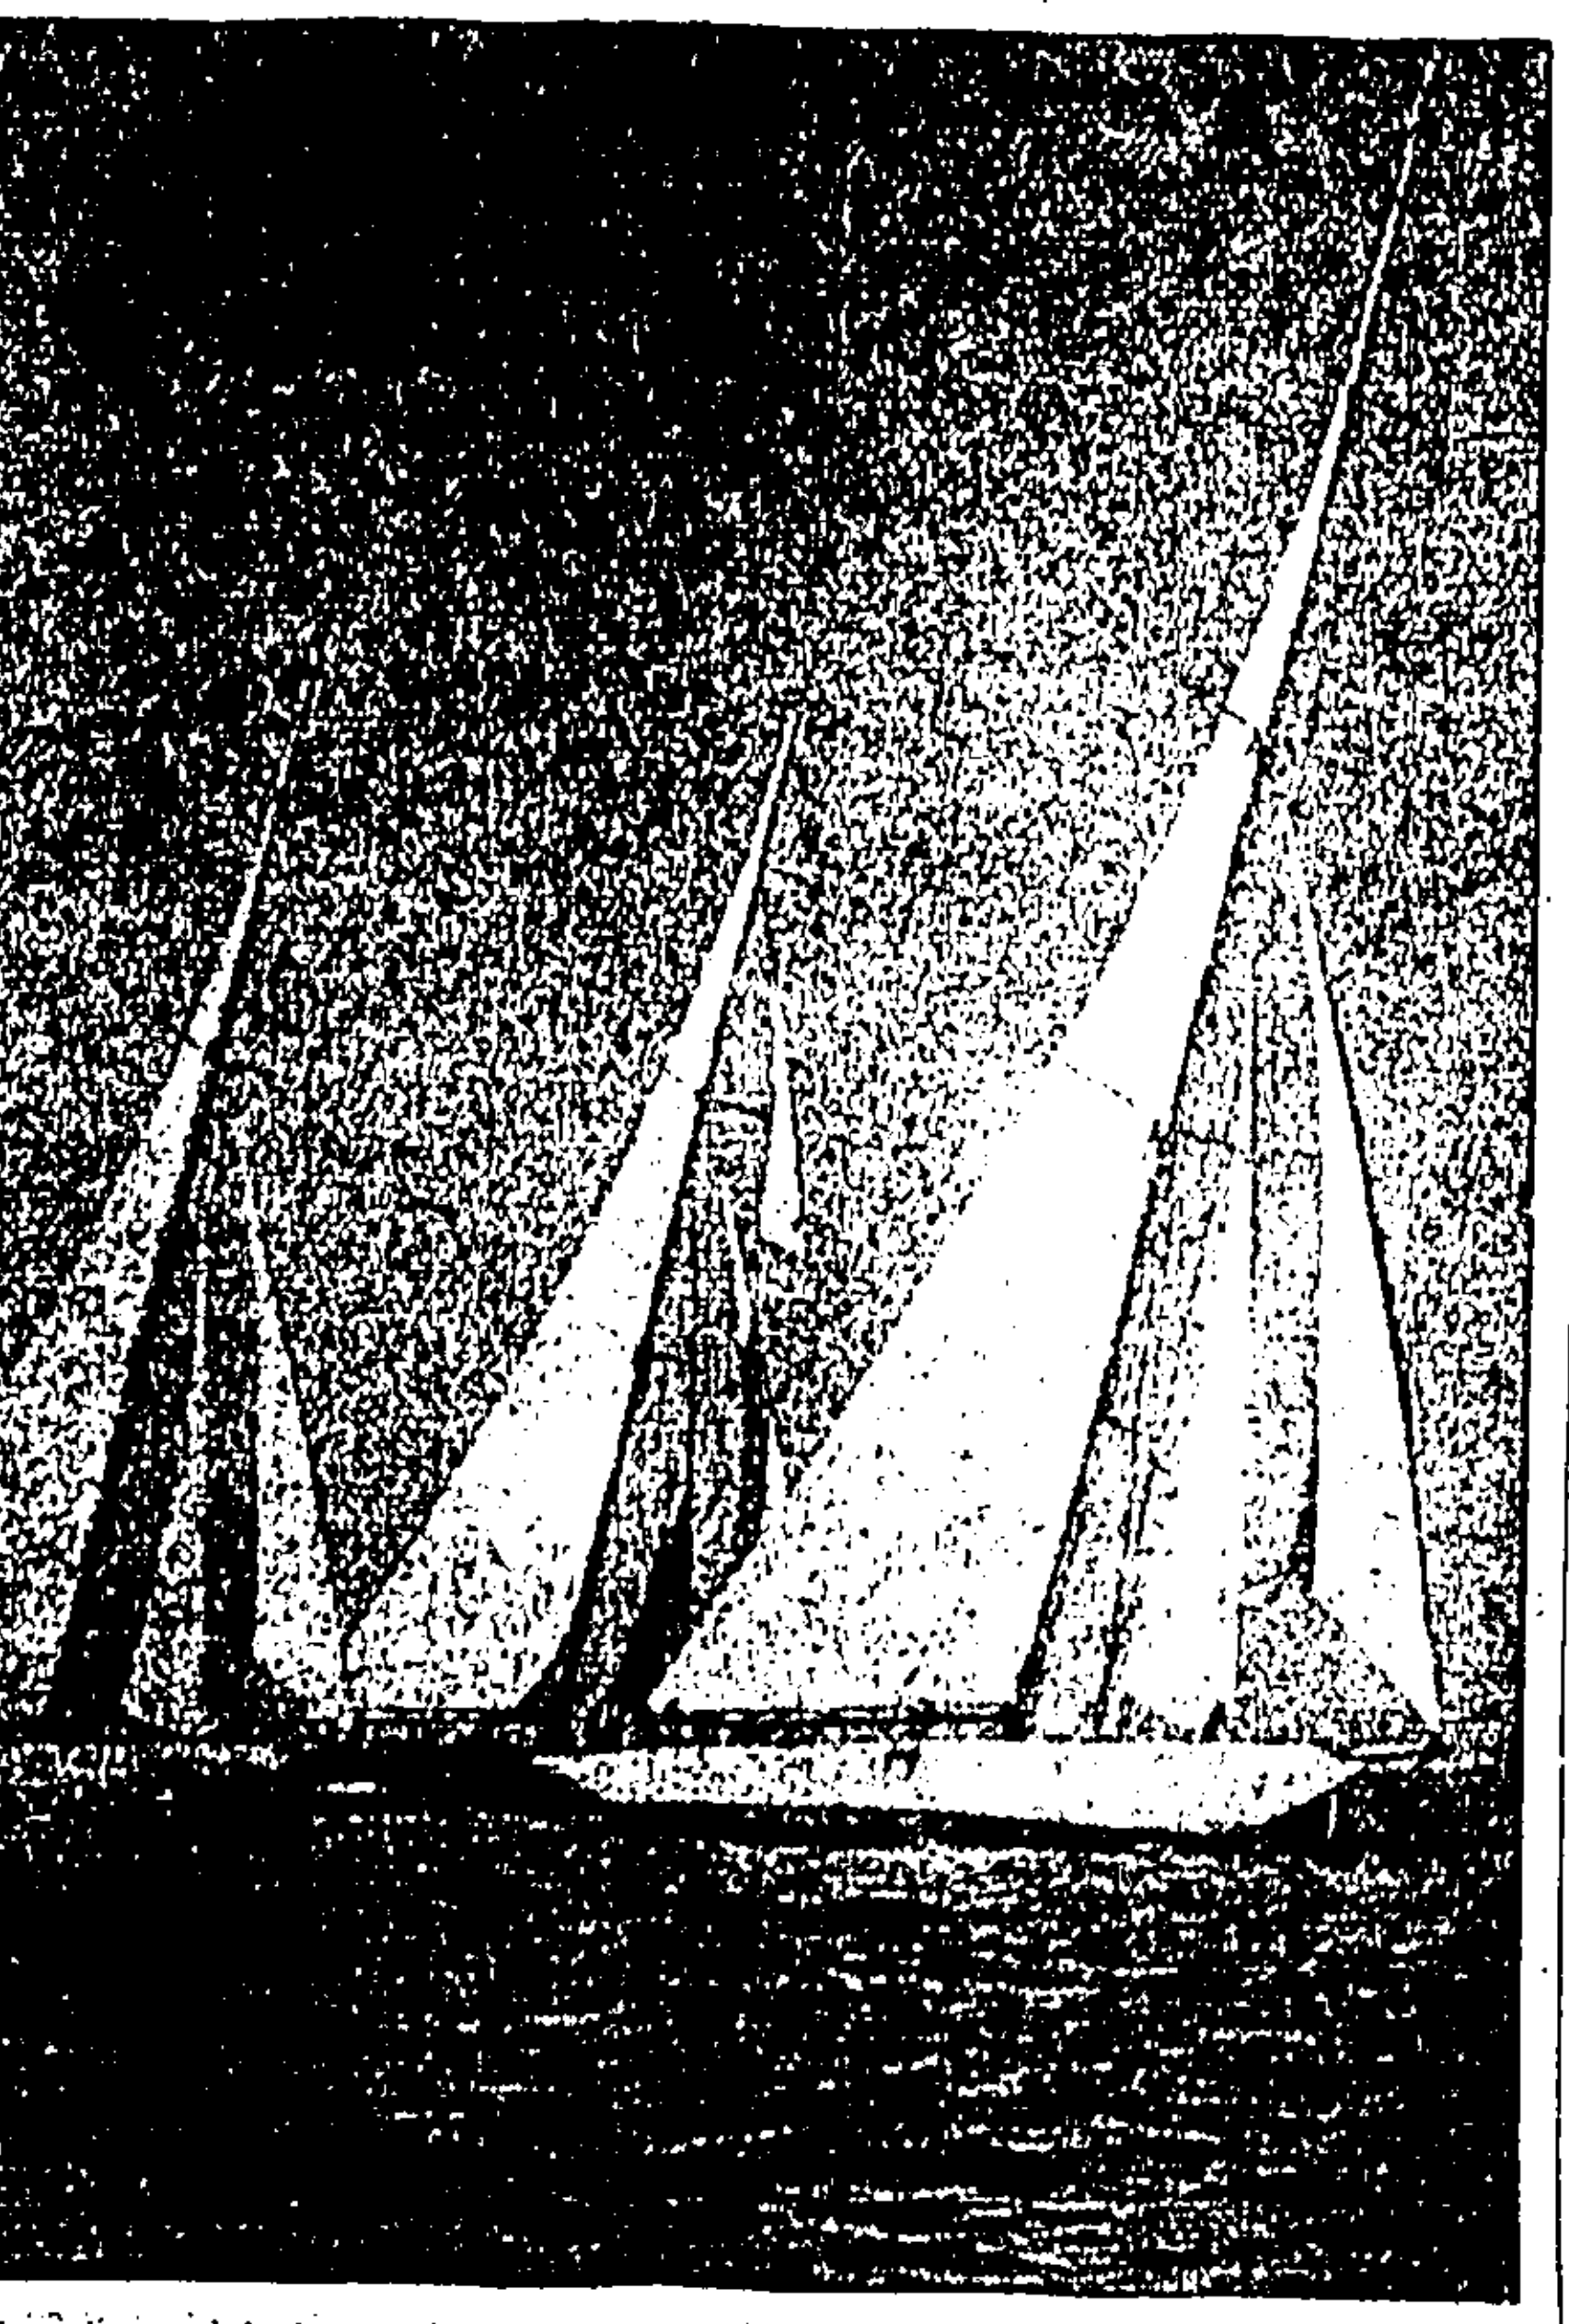

New York, Aug. 2.
Messrs. Dillon Read and Company, the well-known financiers, announce that the German Bank and Discount Company has been unable to meet its $325,000,000 note due on September 1, owing to its inability to obtain the necessary foreign exchange.

The defaulting bank is one of the "big" banks of Germany, equivalent to the British "Big Five."—Reuter.

BOLIVIA AT WAR U.S. JOINS APPEAL FOR PEACE

Washington, Aug. 2.
Alarming reports are coming in of stiff fighting between Paraguayan and Bolivian troops in the Gran Chaco region, the territory which is the cause of the bitterness.

Details are lacking, but the earlier skirmishes appear to be developing in larger scale engagements and many casualties are reported.

STABLE EMPIRE EXCHANGE HOPES AT OTTAWA CONFERENCE

Ottawa, Aug. 2.
The Imperial Economic Conference is rapidly approaching the stage where decisions will have to be made.

The United Kingdom delegation spent the entire day in examining the situation in the light of the requirements of the Dominion representatives, most of which are now known with the exception of the Canadian.

Canada's ideas will probably be submitted in concrete form tomorrow, upon which the United Kingdom delegation can discuss, at least tentatively, their own proposals directly with the Dominions.

PRACTICAL TALK.
To-day's proceedings of the Monetary Commission are described as producing an eminently practical talk regarding commodity prices and the possibility of stabilising exchange within the Empire.—Reuter.

MAIN ISSUE.
In the rescinding of that part of the banishment order which insisted that he should be sent to Indo-China, where, it was stated in the local court, he would be walking into certain death, Sung Man-cho has achieved the most important part of his endeavours to secure freedom.

According to the agreement, Sung may still be banished from Hongkong, but he is free to choose his destination.

He is wanted by the French authorities in Indo-China and had been sent there, as contemplated, a death sentence was almost certain.

YORKSHIRE AND SUSSEX

THE CHAMPIONSHIP STRUGGLE

LANCASHIRE FALL WRETCHEDLY

Yorkshire defeated their traditional enemies, Lancashire, with the greatest of ease at Manchester, with the result that they assume leadership of the county championship table.

The race seems to be resolving into a contest between Sussex and Yorkshire. Nottingham, who had a chance, dropped ten valuable points by failing to defeat Surrey. Sussex are now nine points behind Yorkshire with a match in hand and the issue will probably not be decided until the end of August when the sides meet at Hove. Added interest will be given to this match as Yorkshire's last county engagement.

Sutcliffe batted superbly for 135 runs, contributing largely to Lancashire's defeat by an innings.

The outstanding batting performance of the last three days, however, is credited to V. W. C. Jupp, the Northampton amateur, who, with the wickets of his colleagues falling steadily, hit up 106 in a total innings score of 167.

STILL IN MUNICH.

Herr Hitler at the moment is still in Munich and plans to remain there for the present, but he will be coming to Berlin before the convocation of the Reichstag, personally to negotiate for the inclusion of his politics.

Public interest in politics appears to have subsided after the hectic excitement of recent weeks, the election stalemate having had this natural effect.

VON PAPEN CONFIDENT.

The von Papen Government is contemplating the future with composure, believing that the Catholic Centre Party, led by Herr Brüning will refuse to ally themselves with the Nazis and will dismiss them by a non-confidence vote when the Reichstag meets at the end of the month.—Reuter.

QUADRANGULAR GOLF MATCH

ENGLAND, SCOTLAND, IRELAND, WALES.

("Telegraph" Special).
London, Aug. 2.
One of the most interesting golfing fixtures of the season, the quadrangular international tournament, is now being fought out at Troon.

Many members of the British Walker Cup team are included in the list of national representatives.

In the foursomes play this morning, England beat Ireland by four matches to nil, one being halved.

In the afternoon, England beat Ireland in singles by eleven matches to two, two others being halved.

The Scottish-Welsh contest was much keener. In the morning, Scotland won the foursomes by three matches to two. This afternoon, Scotland beat Wales in the singles by nine matches to six.—Reuter.

DEVELOPMENT IN MANCHURIA Ambitious Scheme for Capital

NEW RAILWAYS

Changchun, Aug. 2.
A Town Planning Committee established in Changchun is now working on a five-year building programme.

It is understood that the scheme calls for the construction of accommodation at Changchun for the housing over a million and a half inhabitants.

It is noteworthy that the present population is estimated at not more than forty-three thousand, of which 15,776 are Japanese or Koreans.—Reuter.

Later.
The Manchukuo Ministry of Communications has, according to reports, approved a project for the construction of several railways to tap the territory immediately to the north of Harbin.

RAILWAY COMPLETED.
A message from Tsitsihar announced that the Taonan-Solun Railway, the construction of which was commenced two years ago by the Mukden Government has now been completed making it possible to exploit the adjoining territory.

It is expected that when peace is restored to Manchuria, many settlers will take up land in that region.—Reuter.

A report has been made to the police by Miss S. Hancock, of 174, Pak Wah Street, second floor, to the effect that some person stole a wrist watch from her flat about 5 a.m. yesterday.

THE COWES REGATTA

London, Aug. 2.
At Cowes Regatta to-day, Queen Mary's Cup for fifteen-ton yachts was won by Sir Geoffrey Feilding's "Rosemary," with Major Powers Clark's "Garuna" second, and Mr. Chaplin's "Corn" third, out of nine starters.

The King's Cup was won by Mr. Sopwith's cutter "Shamrock," with the King's Britannia less than a minute behind and Mr. Stephenson's "White Heather" third.

Only a gentle breeze was blowing in the Solent to-day.

"Shamrock" also won the King's Cup last year when it was owned by the late Sir Thomas Lipton.—British Wireless.

"MAD MULLAH" OF N. INDIA

STILL ON THE OFFENSIVE

Delhi, Aug. 2.
The Fakir of Alingar, who has been seeking to force a passage across the North-West Frontier into British India, is still prosecuting an active offensive and still fighting has resulted in many casualties.

Troops of the loyal Nawab of Dir are heavily beset by the Fakir's armed levies of Salarizais and Shamuzais, but are holding out splendidly.

The Salarizais are attacking the Nawab's fort at Miskini, at the upper end of the Jandul Valley.

The Shamuzais, working independently under the Fakir's direction, are threatening Mingilli in the south.

The forces of the Nawab of Dir have so far proved invincible. The Nawab is being assisted by the British Government. A break through his territory would result in an invasion of British India, the Fakir's ambition.—Reuter.

THE LOST CONTINENT

SEARCH FOR TRACES OF "LEMURIA"

London, Aug. 2.
A scientific expedition to survey the Arabian Sea and the North-West Indian Ocean is now being organised. It will, it is understood, begin operations next year.

The expenses are being largely provided under the will of the late Sir John Murray, whose researches during the Challenger Expedition last century immensely extended scientific knowledge regarding the "Ocean of the World."

Next year's expedition will be led by Colonel Seymour Sewell, the Director of the Indian Museum, Calcutta.

Parts of the Arabian Sea are of immense depth though few soundings have been taken away from the steamship routes.

LEMURIA.
The main objects will be to study the topography of the ocean bottom by echo soundings and to search for traces of the hypothetical continent of Lemuria, which is supposed to have stretched from India westwards. Oceanic fauna and currents will also be studied.

The Committee arranging the expedition includes Admiral Douglas, Hydrographer of Navy, and representatives of the Geographical and Natural History Societies under the chairmanship of Mr. J. C. Murray.—British Wireless.

SERIOUS LORRY MISHAP

PEDESTRIAN'S SPINE FRACTURED

In attempting to avoid a motor cyclist who is stated to have emerged from a side path off Prince Edward Road, a motor lorry which was being driven along the main thoroughfare yesterday struck a pedestrian who was later removed to hospital in a serious condition.

The report which was subsequently made to the police stated that motor lorry 2967, which was being driven by Yim Kau, was travelling along Prince Edward Road yesterday morning from east to west, and when nearing Waterloo Road a cyclist, Cheung Shan, of 97 Fa Yuen Street suddenly turned out from a side path on the left of the road and collided with the lorry. The driver of the lorry tried to avert a collision and in swerving knocked down a pedestrian, Wong Sap-ye, of the Man On Boarding House of Connaught Road.

The cyclist received injuries to his legs and face, while the pedestrian is stated to have received a fractured spine.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

The most difficult thing for the player taking up contract to master is the tables of valuation. The valuation tables for this system are made as simple as possible. The official system of valuation is confined to:

- (a) High-card tricks
(b) Low-card tricks.

Contract bridge is primarily a game of OFFENCE, hence the official system will value all honour cards with respect to their trick-taking potentialities when played offensively. It is a fact, however, that all high-card combinations used in this system contain the necessary DEFENSIVE values to justify making all opening bids. Below is given the table of high-card tricks:

Table of High-Card Tricks

AKQ3	AQ1 1/2
AKJ2 1/2	KQ101 1/2
AK1	A1
AQJ2	KQ1
KQJ1	KJ101
KX1/2	QJX1/2

This table is to be used for valuing the high-card tricks in the bidding hand. Slightly increased values will be added to three or four of these combinations in estimating the values of high cards when held in the supporting hand, as well as in the bidding hand, should it be advisable for the original bidder to RE-BID.

When a player estimates the trick-taking ability of his hand, he should calculate the value of high-card tricks, as given above, and add to this total the value of all LOW-CARD TRICKS.

The total of HIGH-CARD and LOW-CARD TRICKS equals the number of PROBABLE TRICKS contained in the hand. Low-card tricks are valued as follows:

Count each card in the BID SUIT in EXCESS OF THREE, as one low-card trick.
Count each card in a side suit in EXCESS OF THREE, as worth one trick, provided the suit contains at least five cards, and further provided the side suit and the bid suit are both strong in honour cards.

Probable tricks are the backbone of the official system. There are exactly 13 tricks to be won, and if a player and his partner are able to estimate accurately the number that can be won, if played as declarer and dummy, 99 per cent. of their troubles are over. The hands given below show the manner in which a player contemplating making an original bid should value his holdings:

(1)		LCT
HCT	S-K Q 10 8 3	2
1 1/2	H-K 4 2	0
1 1/2	D-A Q 6 3	0

HCT—High-card tricks. LCT—Low-card tricks. PT—Probable tricks.

LOCAL SANITARY
REFORMS*RECENT PROPOSALS CRITICISED*AN UNOFFICIAL MOTION

Certain items in the recommendations by the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services regarding the reorganization of the Colony's medical and sanitary administration, were subject to severe criticism by the Unofficial members of the Sanitary Board at yesterday's meeting.

Mr. C. Champkin, pursuant to notice, moved:

"That, in regard to the copy of Recommendations submitted by the Honourable the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services for the Re-organization on modern lines of the Medical and Sanitary Services of the Colony, which was forwarded to the President of the Sanitary Board by the Honourable the Colonial Secretary under covering letter of the 19th April, 1932, the views of this Board in regard to such Recommendations are as follows:

i. That it is unnecessary to create a Public Health Board which is to function separately and independently of the existing Sanitary Board.

ii. That the Constitution of the Sanitary Board be enlarged in order that it may function as a Public Health Board with the personnel suggested by the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services for his Public Health Advisory Board (except that the Vice-Chairman shall be a non-technical man, preferably the Secretary for Chinese Affairs) but with a proportionate increase in the number of the unofficial representatives of the public, (so that the existing unofficial majority be approximately maintained), such enlarged Board to exercise all the functions of the present Sanitary Board, together with the new functions contemplated by the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services for his Public Health Advisory Board.

iii. That it is imperative in the interests of the general public that all questions of policy and expenditure of public money should be vested in the Public Health Board.

iv. That, as regards the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services' recommendations under subheading "The Medical or Curative Branch", having regard to the necessity for economy in the working out of the scheme, sufficient recognition has not been accorded to the fact that there are in the Colony highly qualified medical practitioners who may be willing to cooperate, either in an honorary capacity, or on part time engagement, or to the fact that Hongkong University Clinical Professors are, and have for some time past been, rendering valued and highly appreciated public services.

v. That copies of such memoranda on the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services' recommendations as have been submitted to the Head of the Sanitary Department by members of this Board be forwarded to the Government for its consideration.

vi. Subject to the points enumerated above, the unofficial members of this Board are in general agreement with the policy of reform advocated by the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services."

Mr. Champkin's Speech.

Mr. Champkin said.—As a newcomer I am under the disability—or it may well be that I have the advantage—of knowing nothing of any considerations by the Board that may have prompted this very able and interesting memorandum by the Hon. the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services. I approach it without knowing in what respects, if any, this

Board has so failed to function effectively—as to warrant the implied criticism of the D.M.S.S. that the Sanitary Board under this proposed new scheme will confine its activities to sanitation in the restricted sense of the term.

The majority of my non-official colleagues are professionally qualified to analyse these public health proposals with more perspicacity than I can claim and I would have preferred that they should have been subjected to a more detailed scrutiny than I can give them in briefly putting forward the motion that stands in my name.

I would like however to say that the motion as it stands is the considered and unanimous view of the non-official members of this Board. I think I could go so far as to say that the D.M.S.S. has laid us under a heavy obligation by setting forth so lucidly and convincingly needs that it is clearly our duty to urge. The Sanitary Board will not stand between the D.M.S.S. and the putting into effect of such public health reforms as are obviously desirable and we non-officials are agreed that many of the reforms he advocates are long overdue.

Internal Changes.

We appreciate the advantages of his proposals in so far as they are concerned with internal departmental changes—by which I mean changes in nomenclature, increases or reductions in personnel and improvements or additions to material and equipment.

It is of course impossible for us to hazard an opinion as to whether the public benefits of these proposals will be commensurate with the public expenditure they will involve. There must be a point of balance somewhere and if we look upon this Board rather as the guardian of the public health than as the custodian of the public purse we may still, I hope, rely upon some unhygienic Finance Committee submitting this scheme to a more searching economic analysis than we are able to give it.

We entirely agree with the D.M.S.S. as to the advisability of a clearer demarcation, by new ordinances, or by amendments to existing ordinances, of the many interests concerned with the health, safety and convenience of the public that come within our province.

We do not however agree that it is necessary or desirable—we are emphatically of opinion that it is very unnecessary and entirely undesirable—that the carrying out of these reforms should cloak a scheme for depriving the taxpayer of his elementary right to ask questions through the elected members of this Board on matters of public interest apart from sanitation in the restricted sense of the term.

The Prevention and Treatment of Epidemics, the Sale of Food and Drugs, Factory and Workshop Conditions, the Construction of Buildings, Cattle Disease, Town Planning, matters relating to Water Supply, the Public Health and everything else except Sanitation in the restricted sense of the term—all these by a stroke of the pen are to be placed beyond public criticism. They are to be no longer matters of public concern.

Paying the Piper.

The taxpayer that pays the piper may be quite content that the D.M.S.S. should call the tune, but if the taxpayer is to be told to mind his own business when he ventures to enquire what the tune is, then I say he will not tolerate this deprivation of his right. The non-officials of this Board will most strenuously resist the proposed abrogation of their authority to criticise any and every department concerned with Public Health.

The suggested establishment of a Public Health Advisory Board consisting of the Hon. the Colonial Secretary, the Hon. the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services, (Continued on Page 9.)

LEAP YEAR BRIDE

by BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

Cherry Dixon, pretty, 19, tells her mother she is going to a club meeting but instead meets Dan Phillips, reporter on the Wellington News. Cherry has few friends because her wealthy parents consider most of the other young people of the town socially inferior. She has become acquainted with Phillips without her parents' knowledge.

She and Dan lunch together and are about to start for a drive in Cherry's roadster when another reporter tells Dan the city editor has been trying to find him. Dick Smith, a bank robber, has escaped jail and the city editor wants Dan to find Inez Malloy, Smith's sweetheart, and get an interview. Dan and Cherry drive to the apartment where Inez is staying. He enters, promising to return in 10 minutes. When he does not come Cherry grows nervous and goes into the apartment to find him.

CHAPTER III

Some of the names above the mail boxes tilted tipsily so that they were difficult to read. Others lacked identification of any sort. Cherry scoured the list but nowhere could she find the name "Baker." It must be there, though, "Baker" was what Dan had said. Unless he'd found the place he'd have come back.

But there was no such name on the list of tenants of the apartment. The girl turned uncertainly. The exterior of the building had proven deceptive. The small square entrance way in which she stood was soiled and down-at-heel. Brown walls with hideous panels of scenic wall paper on either side. Finger marks smudging the woodwork. The simulated tile floor in need of soap and water.

What should she do? Cherry's fears were rising. It was at that instant that a grimy urchin, capless and wearing a sweater too large for him, appeared on the other side of the outer door and stared at the girl through the glass panel.

She drew back the door. "Do you know if some people named Baker live here?" she asked.

The urchin nodded. Traces of some sticky stuff showed on his cheeks. The blue stars of impassive eyes regarded her, but the child did not speak. "Can you tell me where to find them?"

The urchin pointed a sticky finger to the door at the left. Through the glass portion of the door a short flight of stairs was revealed. Evidently it led to a hall. Somehow the child reassured Cherry. It couldn't be such a dreadful place if there were children about. Timidly she put a hand on the door. It opened.

She went up the steps gingerly and found herself in a long passage. There was a dim yellow light half way down the hall. Its meagre rays showed doors on either side—probably a dozen of them. Grey daylight filtered through a window on the landing where the stairs turned.

The thing to do now would be to knock at one of these doors and ask where the Bakers lived. Cherry took two steps forward—and drew back in dismay. There were voices, men's voices, raised and angry, behind the nearest doors on the right.

The voices continued. One of them grew louder than the others. Oh, there was no doubt that the men were angry. Suddenly Cherry heard the clatter of a key turning in a lock. They were coming!

In panic, blindly, the girl ran up the stairs and turned at the landing. She heard the door open below and the men came out. Breathless, she flattened herself against the wall.

Now they were gone but she dared not go down. Stenlithly Cherry crept up the stairs to the second floor. She must find someone to help her. She must find Dan!

Marshalling all her courage, Cherry stepped forward. She raised a hand and knocked at the door before her.

was familiar. A pleasant voice. Whose was it? Cherry opened her eyes.

"That's the girl, Cherry! Feeling better now? Why, it was Dan who was bending over her! He seemed to have his arm about her."

"Dan—what happened?" "Never mind about that now. Here, see if you can drink this." He held a glass to her lips. It was sharp, biting stuff that stung her throat but she drank it. Dan's face looked worried. What was the matter?

Suddenly Cherry began to remember things. That drive down strange streets—Inez. Somebody whom Dan must find—waiting outside in the car—

Cherry felt a knife-like twinge of pain in her left arm. A little moan escaped her lips. Then she saw that the arm was bandaged and there were blotches of red on the white cloth. Fright widened her eyes.

"Dan—?" she began but was interrupted. "Listen, honey, do you think you can stand up if I put my arm around you? We want to get you to a doctor. Here, let's see if you can make it!"

She was lying on a dayenport in a room she had never seen before. Strange faces were peering at her. Several women, a half-grown girl, the grimy urchin she had seen downstairs and two men. It was not an attractive room and they were not attractive faces. Her arm ached.

"Try it, Cherry," Dan prompted. "I'll help you." Obeyingly she tried to rise. The throbbing pain made her awkward. Phillips lifted her, carefully and gently. When she was on her feet she leaned against him.

"I—I can make it!" she said. The girl's voice was almost a whisper. She took a step unsteadily.

"Wait—here's your coat."

They managed to get it around her, one arm in its sleeve and the other hanging loose. One of the women helped Dan. Then, slowly and painfully, they made for the door.

It had been one of the rooms on the second floor in which Cherry had found herself. They reached the hall. There Phillips picked the girl up and carried her in his arms down the stairs. Not until they had reached the entrance way did he set her down.

"Arm hurt much now?" he asked. "It's pretty sore," she admitted. "Was it—a gun that went off?" Phillips nodded. "Might have been a look-out or just some crazy drunk. Whoever did it was gone when I got there. The main thing, child, is to get you to a doctor's office."

They left the building. Suddenly Phillips brushed around the girl and a little in front of her. "Stay close to me!" he murmured. "And let me do the talking!"

Not six yards away, coming toward them, was a blue-coated officer and a youth.

"Just a minute there!" the policeman called. Dan and Cherry halted.

"Do you live in this building?" the policeman demanded.

"No."

QUANTITY and QUALITY.

WAKEFIELD CASTROL MOTOR OIL gives you both the correct quantity and quality.
It is sold by the Imperial Gallon of approx. 9 lbs. which is the legal measure in the Colony and the innumerable achievements standing to the credit of this aristocratic lubricant are sufficient evidence of its incomparable quality. There are no inferior or alternative grades of Castrol motor oils. Britain's records on land sea and in the air were all made on Castrol and the oil we sell here is exactly the same as used on these occasions.

WOMEN'S WORLD

FOR OUR LADY READERS.

BATH-TOWEL FROCKS.

Debutantes' New River Fashion.

Ordinary Turkish towelling, gaily striped or boldly patterned, has suddenly become the vogue for evening frocks worn at riverside dances.

Many couples like to go punting or for a row on the river by moonlight between dances, but women found that romance swiftly disappeared and such jaunts became decidedly expensive if delicate frocks of chiffon or satin were ruined by a splash due to a clumsy escort. So they demanded frocks which could not be spoiled, and these bath-towel gowns are the result.

Several debutantes who are fond of punting and like to show their skill on the river after dinner, are wearing them.

This type of dress fits perfectly into the background of the river, and a woman is not haunted with the fear of having her frock spoiled.

This type of dress is also decidedly slimming, for although the material is fairly thick and heavy, the stripes are used cunningly over fitting hips and down the slightly flared skirt. Even the fitted, tailored jacket of red crepe satin, which matches the sash, will withstand a sudden splash.

VICTORIA CHAPPELLE.

FASHION NOTES.

Shorter Skirts for Summer Wear.

Most couturiers advocate shorter skirts for summer wear, and more elaborate and wider sleeves. Cotton is the material which is a la mode.

It is essentially smart, and in much better taste for summer wear than the richer materials. Regarding the sleeves themselves, curious, indeed, are the excessively wide sleeves which are being shown on frocks and coats alike, and which fall deeply over a narrow band which reaches to the elbow, or just below.

Some of these are set into the armholes by means of pleats. Imagine a coat in same pale pastel colouring, slim and graceful, with a fitting line merging into a slight-

YOUR BEAUTY BOX.

Now is the Time to Overhaul.

Now is the time to overhaul the contents of your beauty box. Ranges and lipsticks which are greasy are all very well in the winter time, but summer calls for a more subtle mark-up, and less grease should be used, even for a skin which has a tendency to be dry. Many women, for instance, find that their ranges slowly fade away as the natural oils of the skin begin to work, so that a small compact has to be carried if their complexion is to last through the day. Now, however, there is a new greaseless range which should stay on all day if it is properly used.

The foundation for the powder, too, should not contain too much grease, which in summer is liable to show through the powder. Some women use a foundation lotion, which is easily absorbed by the skin. If the powder is put on before the lotion is thoroughly dry, the result will be that fine matt appearance which is so much admired.

Must Be Natural.

But fashion says that make-up this year must be as natural as possible. This needs the touch of an expert, so a famous beauty specialist gives this advice: Apply the rouge fairly heavily and lightly rub most of it off again. This will give the effect of that "school girl complexion" which is so becoming to Englishwomen.

ly flared skirt, and with two wide pouched elbow sleeves, pleated in front and just above the waist on each side, are the latest surprise in the Paris dressmaking world. Several false décolletées are interesting, too. Fine silk net in flesh tones is used to build up the cut-out back, under-arms, and front of the gown, and very striking this is.

The patterns run from the quaint posy pattern to exotic three flowers. For instance, gold and greens blossom on a black ground, and in mousseline-de-soie, was the material for a trained evening gown, very décolletée both back and front.

DOING YOUR WORST.

The Lesser of Two Evils.

Have you ever deliberately set out to do your worst?

Not, you understand, for the sake of seeing how bad it can be, but just for the sake of getting something done, when you are in one of those moods which make your best impossible and you cannot see a possibility of doing anything in between.

A firm belief that one cannot do a thing well is certainly not likely to add to one's skill, but if there is no one else to do it, and it ought to be done, one must realise the fact that this is no time for concentrating upon one's lack of skill. Rather is it a moment for practising that self-confident, know-it-all spirit so detestable in ordinary circumstances, but really necessary in emergency.

After all, there are many people who have achieved great things in the world who owe the discovery of their powers to the necessity to act in an emergency, and there are many, many more who achieve a respectable average of useful work which they would never touch if they were determined at all times to do nothing less than their best.

As a matter of fact, one's worst is often not nearly so bad as one imagines, and if there is no one else to fill the gap it is sound philosophy to choose the lesser of two evils and do our best—even if it be our worst.

BEST MATERIALS.

Colour in Lingerie.

Colour is superlatively important where lingerie is concerned. This may match the accessories of your costume, or the costume itself. Turquoise lingerie to "tie up" with turquoise accessories is the preferred under-tone. Ash-pink is another. White or black-and-white day time lingerie is to be had for the millions of magpie devotees.

Materials in the preferred category are crepe-de-chine, lustrous satin, silk-linen, and silk batiste.

The day-time idea of avoiding

Giving New Life to Dull Hair.

The platinum blonde, though passe now, did her bit for all women.

That bit, the important bit, consisted of establishing the fact that a girl can affect any artificial colour she likes in her hair and flaunt it, not hide it or be ashamed of it.

Why not profit by the example? I don't mean to advocate going platinum. Don't misunderstand me. That particular type of bleaching is particularly hard on the hair. Hardly worth the effort.

What I do mean is—why not look your hair over and if it is drab, do something about it?

Every girl should have lovely hair. Drab hair isn't pretty. It isn't the least bit attractive.

The same hair, rinsed with one of the golden rinses, may take on an amazingly lovely character. Or perhaps you look better with something not the least bit reddish, but just a lemon rinse which bleaches just the least bit and brings out your colour.

Camomile shampoos can be had which are particularly good for the girl with light hair that is just naturally light, not red, not gold. Before your mother was born ladies appreciated the effect of camomile and used it.

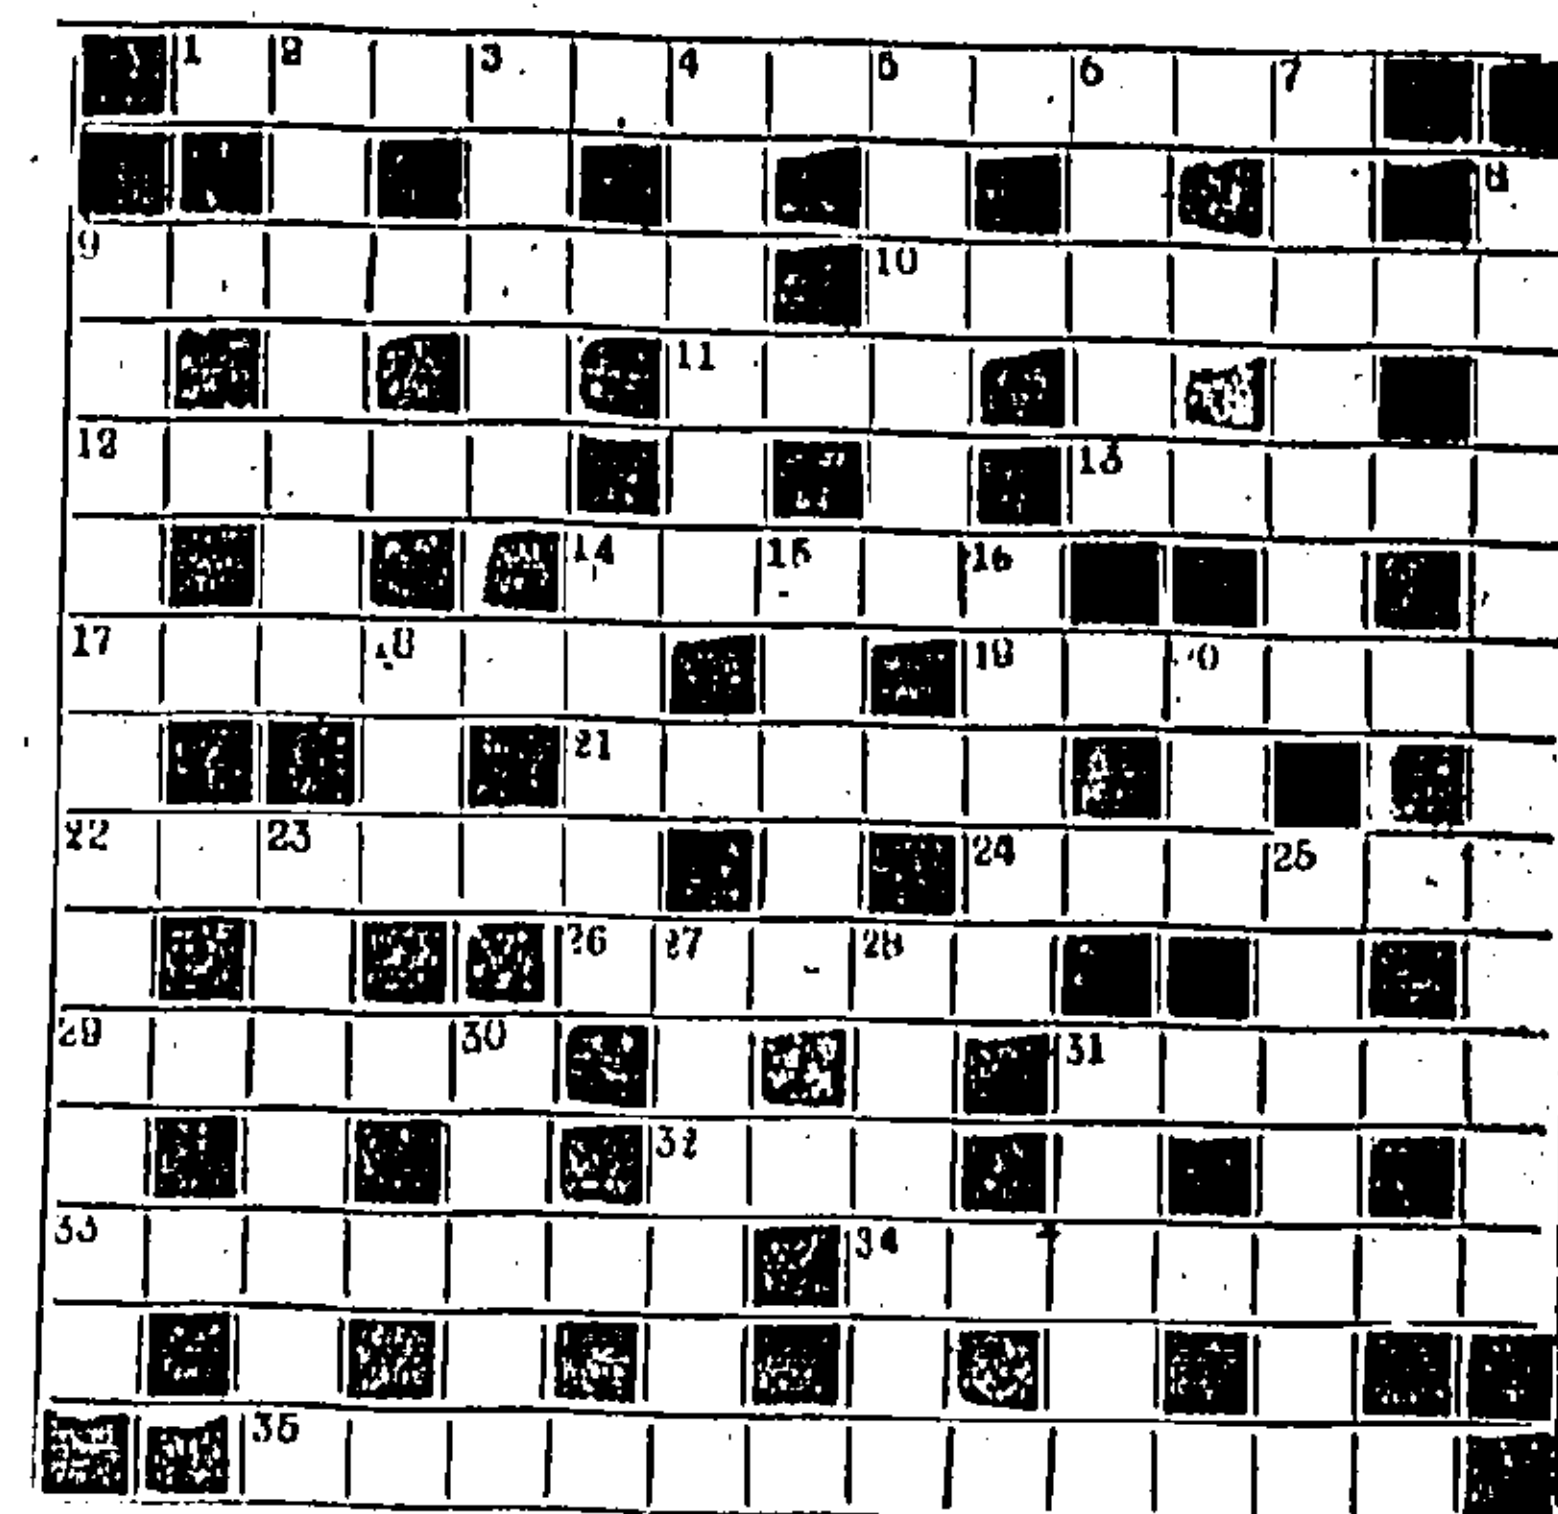

Women in England have continued using it, while Americans have practically forgotten how beneficial the herb can be. Why not try it?

There are several tested rinses on the market that don't hurt your hair. Most of them do dry it out a bit. But you can counteract that by using an oily tonic. It comes out even and you look better for the bargain.—ALICIA HART.

all transparency via your lingerie has its partisans for evening also, and the dressmaker who dressed her mannequins only in pink silk jersey bathing-suits under flowing evening skirts has not succeeded in her daring plan.

MAN KILLED BY LIGHTNING.

LONDON VISITED BY A TROPICAL STORM

London, Aug. 2. A fierce storm broke over London this afternoon when the city, like the rest of the country was bathed in sunshine. Crowds were driven to shelter from the torrential rain and the blinding flashes of lightning. The East End suffered most. Many houses and other buildings were struck, and the roads became temporary rivers, flooding the subways and stopping traffic, while the drains were so taxed with the weight of the water that manholes were forced into the air with loud reports.

Three cricket spectators at Twickenham fell after one flash. One was killed and another injured.—Reuter's Special Service.

LOOKING BACK

In connexion with Mr. Chamberlain's plea at yesterday's meeting
of the Sanitary Board for the preservation of the right of the public
to make itself heard on health problems, it is worth while to recall
some interesting developments
which occurred nearly forty years
ago when the reconstruction of
the Board was under consideration. To gain a full appreciation
of the matter, it needs stating
that, a year or so previously, a petition had been sent Home to the House of Commons, by residents of the Colony. The demands put forward included a
majority of elected representatives
on the Legislative Council, complete control in Council over local
expenditure, the management of
local affairs, and a consultative
voice in questions of an Imperial character. Incidentally, it may be mentioned that the Marquis of Ripon, who was then the Secretary
of State, whilst not conceding the
full demands, put forward certain
ideas as being worthy of consideration, one of these being the creation of a Municipal Council.
Shortly afterwards, however, Mr.
Joseph Chamberlain succeeded
Lord Ripon and he expressed himself against the suggested Municipal Council, arguing that it would
be difficult to draw the line between Colonial and Municipal matters.

It was whilst these matters
were under discussion that the question of reconstructing the Sanitary Board arose. Sir William Robinson was Governor at
that time, and he prepared a draft
Bill constituting a Board of three
official and two unofficial members,
the latter to be elected by the rate-
payers. Mr. Chamberlain approved of this Bill, but some few months later, Sir William Robinson advised him that the measure
did not appear to be acceptable to
the British community, and that accordingly he had taken a plebiscite on the question as to whether the Board should have an official or an unofficial majority.
The result was that 331 voted for
an unofficial majority and 31
against. This result apparently
so upset the Governor that he advised Mr. Chamberlain of his (Sir William's) view that he favoured
sanitary affairs being placed directly under Government control and

managed entirely by a Department responsible to the Governor.

The upshot of it all was that
Mr. Chamberlain declined to take any steps whatever towards re-
constituting the Board, holding
that it would be far better for the matter to be considered by the next Governor, who would be able to approach the issues de novo. Sir William Robinson, however, was
rapped over the knuckles for
having taken a plebiscite amongst
the British community. He was frankly told by the Secretary of State that "it is inconsistent with Crown Colony government to seek
the guidance of a plebiscite; and
in no community whatever, whether Crown Colony or not, can a
satisfactory solution of a question, in which the whole body of
the ratepayers and many outside
that body are interested, be induced from an expression of the opinions of one section alone." Much later, of course, the Sanitary Board was put on a better footing,
with a large element of unofficials
admitted. The value of the services of these unofficial members
has again and again been attested,
and it is well that their rights as representatives of the public should
be safeguarded.

Can London Lead the Ladies?

The laws which govern women's
dress are mysterious, and the
sultans of style who issue their
decrees to the world have long had their divan in Paris. Rebel movements have from time to time
been started, it is true, and rival
claimants have occasionally appeared in London, in New York,
and even Shanghai. But always,
in the long run, Paris has won,
and dressmakers have turned to
the French houses for their
models. But will it always be so?
In London at the present moment
a more determined effort is being made than ever before, not perhaps to wrest the palm from Paris,
but at least to share it with her.
The royal family is interesting
itself in the movement. Debutantes at court this year were
expected to wear all-English
dresses. Mrs. Baldwin threw open
her drawing-room in Downing Street to displays of British silks.
Special dress shows were organized for the British Industries Fair,
and a group of well-known English dressmakers have co-operated
in holding fashion parades.
Patriotism, in other words, has been called in to redress the balance of exotic taste. But it will succeed only if the dress-
makers are able to produce the
goods; for patriotism and dow-
diness do not go well together.
There are two secrets in the success which Paris has hitherto
enjoyed. One is the innate taste
of the Parisian designer; the
other lies in the practice of cooperation. In France the manufacturers of fabrics have always
been in direct touch with those
who make up materials and design
dresses; and the latter have been
in touch with one another. The art of designing fabrics has been
co-ordinated with the art of designing dresses. The whole dress
trade is controlled by a group,
and if the group adds twelve
inches to the length of Paris
dresses, then the women of Hongkong, of Cape Town and of Melbourne sooner or later add twelve
inches to the length of theirs.
The style engineers who are now
operating in London are aware of this, and are making heroic efforts
to bring the leading dressmakers
of London together, and to corre-
late their work with that of the
makers of silk and woollen fabrics.
This favourable moment when fair
debutantes are so ready to "buy British" offers them a first-rate
opportunity to show they can rival
the magicians of Paris.

PROF. GERRARD ON "QUACKERY"

Professor W. I. Gerrard, of the Hongkong University, delivered a most interesting and educative
address on "Quackery" as it affected
the medical profession, to members of the Rotary Club at the weekly fifth yesterday.

The physician of to-day, said
Prof. Gerrard, differed materially
from his predecessor of 100 years
ago. The "bedside manner," and all that went with it to cover up
ignorance, had given place to
sound scientific knowledge in the person of the fully qualified medical practitioner of to-day.

Professor Gerrard said it is
man's ignorance of how to live
which brings him to suffering and
the untimely grave. Only scientific medicine can guide away from
the dangers which threaten him
amid the morasses of civilization.
Here the qualified medical man
reigns supreme, and here his prerogative can never be assumed by
the man who having no sound
knowledge of the make-up and
functioning of the body, yet professes to remedy its ills.

Rotarian M. F. Key also delivered an interesting paper on the same subject, during which he thanked Professor Gerrard on behalf of the club.

LEAVE YOUTH ALONE

For What Have We to Offer?—Says Silas K. Hocking.

THE eternal warfare between
youth and age is raging more
vigorously to-day than ever before,
and has culminated in ago pursuing
a furious onslaught on the younger generation, which has, I feel, in
the name of justice, gone rather
too far.

In fact, I venture to suggest that
in lashing youth with the harsh
whip of criticism we are in grave
danger of overlooking our own
faults, and were we to turn the
spotlight on ourselves for a moment, we should find reflected not a
few of those faults unjustly laid
at the door of youth.

In reality age is, and always has been, a little jealous of youth, and
in many cases that jealousy is il-
concealed under a very thin veneer
of affability—a fact which young
people are quick to recognise and
respond to, by adopting a "don't care" attitude, and an injured feeling that they are "up against it."

I have many a time seen an older
woman railing her youthful sister
for being a "heartless little flirt,"
or a "brazen hussy," when all the
time one suspects she is jealous
because her own faded looks no
longer attract, and because the presence of a young and pretty girl
reminds her of her own crumbled
age and lost opportunities. And
so she becomes "dog-in-the-man-
gerish," and tries tyrannically to assert that "what I never had,
neither shall you have!"

The Victorian Mind.

Why should we be jealous of the
privileges which young people today have firmly asserted as their
rights, or sneer at their hardly
earned independence—an independence for which, as a matter of
fact, we ourselves are responsible?

For the seed was undoubtedly sown
in the early days of the war—a
war of our own making, and in which youth had no hand. And
now, when young people have
thrown aside most of our prewar
conventions, we are inclined to look
sideways at their emancipation,
and to chide them for discussing
those things which in our time
neither old nor young discussed.

It is time that we grown-ups
shook off some of our Victorian
prudery and conventions, which
were at best only an appearance of virtue, and recognise that delig-ent honesty and frankness of speech
of which youth to-day can boast,
and which some people mis-call
"precocity" and "brazenness."

I do not think that youth to-day
is immoral—neither do I think that
in most cases young people misuse
their freedom, but rather that their
principles are strengthened by the constant temptations with which
this new freedom is bound to bring them into conflict. After all, immorality in our time was largely shrouded by the cloak of convention, which safeguarded to a certain extent its apparentness. But were we more moral?

What have we to offer youth in return for our demand on their respect and admiration? Are the divorce courts any example of our
right to assume authority over the young? I think not! For they are sprinkled with a goodly proportion
of middle-aged and old, who should
by now have arrived at years of discretion. Youth to-day is confronted with a world-wide depression, an atmosphere of defeatism
brought about largely by the older generation.

We have helped to destroy creeds
and beliefs and long established
conventions, and given youth a fine
old tangle to unravel. How can we expect them to grapple alone with

these problems while we sit comfortably back in our armchairs and criticise? After all, in our own
time, and I am speaking of the
years from 1890-1914, life flowed
on in comparative peace and prosperity. It was in fact, a golden age, and brought with it a sense
of security. To-day there is no
security, and youth is at grips with life as we never were.

Real Help.

There are some grown-ups today who strike me as being far less
responsible and dignified than their children. Parents who frivel and pose as being "marvellously
young," and who are too busy having a "good time" themselves to care whether they are drifting.
Then there are many elderly
people, particularly women, who
have spent the best years of their life in dreading old age. When it comes, they refuse to recognise its presence, but strive instead to snatch the prize which they are
losing, from youth—to cheat youth,
in fact, of its rights. Youth might apply to them that those who wish to be young again have given
a sure proof that they have not
made a satisfactory use of their life!

I think we can best help youth,
not by preaching or interfering, but
by seeking their comradeship. By discussing with them their many
problems we shall give them far
more help than by assuming a dictatorial manner, which so many
grown-ups imagine is the prerogative
of age. If we want the companionship of youth then we must
adopt a "give and take" method,
and try to view life from their
standpoint rather than expect them
to live in our past.

Many parents complain that
their children no longer enjoy home
life, but want to live independently,
and this is so often because all
their home offers them is criticism
of their friends and their ways, and
unless they meekly conform to the
line chosen by their parents, life
becomes a series of conflicts.

I think we are apt sometimes to
criticise youth's waywardness,
when a little praise or encouragement would far more easily
eliminate the fault. There are many young people who suffer
from what is known to-day as "the
inferiority complex" because they
have been made to feel their faults
rather than their more pleasing
qualities. I am thinking at this moment of a young boy I know who
has suffered severely at the hands
of nagging parents. "John, don't do this," or "must you do that?"
is his daily portion, yet never once
have I heard a word of praise or
encouragement when he returns
from school top of his class, or
with a prize.

No, until the older generation is prepared to accept the spirit of "canarderie," there will never be a truce, and the barriers between
age and youth will become insurmountable.

THE REAL EPSTEIN:

WHAT strange ideas one gets
into one's head about celebrities. Never having seen even a photograph of him, I had always imagined Epstein as a very thin
dark man, and from what I had
seen of his work put him down as a
highly strung and intensely erratic
almost volcanic personality.

Imagine, then, my astonishment
when, meeting Epstein for the first
time over the tea-table at his house
in Hyde Park Gate, I found my
notions of him all topsy-turvy.

Instead of a terribly tempera-
mental being, there was a man
whose gifts as a host could not be bettered. Instead of the anticipated exhibition of artistic
"nerves," I was treated to an exhibition of old-world courtesy and
kindness.

So thoroughly was I made at
home that in no time I forgot the
world-wide fame of the man entertaining me. All the time Epstein talked vividly, evincing a strong sense of humour and a rich
store of knowledge on all topical
subjects.

But one thing I particularly
noticed was his reluctance to talk
either about his art or himself. It seemed as though art and life were
two separate things in his make-up.

A Devoted Father.

I glimpsed another sidelight to
this remarkable man's character
through observing his attitude towards his little daughter, Peggy
Jean, whose long blonde locks reminded me at once of Alice in Wonderland. Both in look and in action I have never seen a father
so devoted to his daughter.

It was as a result of this tea in Hyde Park Gate that I came to act
as a model for Epstein, and
although a model has but little chance of looking round and taking
things in, the impressions I gained
while sitting did much to reveal
Epstein as an artist to me.

"Don't mind," he said before we began, "if I swear a bit, as this
day is often troublesome." But I noticed that he never voiced his

CENTURY

London, Aug. 2. THE bold challenge being made by Sussex for leadership of the county cricket league is being just as boldly met by Yorkshire who occupy top position at the present, and they have added another decisive victory of an innings to the season's record to enable them to keep well ahead of their rivals.

Meeting Lancashire at Manchester they fairly outplayed their neighbours, Sutcliffe scoring his eighth century of the season and Verity adding to his splendid bowling record.

DERBY'S ESCAPE

V. W. C. Jupp, the brilliant Northants all-rounder, who has displayed exceptionally fine form with the bat and ball this season, added another achievement to his imposing record when Northants met Leicester and suffered defeat by an innings and 14 runs.

Jupp actually scored 106 runs out of a total of 167, making a superb effort to avert the innings defeat. It was made in vain, however, the brilliant batsman receiving no support from his colleagues. Geary and Astill wrought the damage for Leicester, the former helping himself to seven wickets for 60 runs and the latter 6 for 74.

Yorkshire's innings win was gained after Lancashire had enjoyed first use of the wicket. They were dismissed for 170, and the "Tykes" went in to hit the home attack in all directions. Sutcliffe contributed 135 and the innings terminated at 362 for 9 wickets declared. Verity bowled with remarkable effect when Lancashire endeavoured to save the innings defeat, and his 5 for 35 was responsible for Lancashire only getting to within five of the Yorkshire score.

Derbyshire lost on first innings to Warwick, but were decidedly fortunate in not meeting with a severe defeat. At the close of

INTERNATIONAL
MATCH

Bournemouth, Aug. 2. In a two-day match between Australia and Japan which opened here to-day, Japan took a lead of three matches to nil, and cannot now lose. Four singles and two doubles rubbers are scheduled, and already Japan has won two singles and one doubles.

In the opening match Jiro Sato of Japan beat Sproule 6-1, 3-6, 6-2, 6-1, and later Kawabara outplayed Clemenger to win in straight sets 6-2, 6-2, 6-3.

Harry Hopman and Sproule teamed up for Australia in the first doubles encounter, but were defeated by Sato and Kawabara after an interesting five-sets encounter, the scores in favour of the Japanese reading 6-3, 8-6, 3-6, 4-6, 6-4.—Reuter.

GERMANY'S
CLAIM TO OLYMPICSNext International Meeting May be
in Berlin

Before the tenth Olympiad has been completed in Los Angeles this year, the International Olympic Federation will have discussed the site and tentative date of the next international games. The meeting of this group, representing more than 50 nations will take place in Los Angeles during the festivities. Judging from the number of applicants from all over the world, it would seem almost as though the present generation would not again witness an Olympiad in America. In fact there are those who think that the games should always be held in Europe, and the long journey to Los Angeles will undoubtedly make up the minds of the majority of European nations to that effect.

It seems almost certain that the games will be held in Berlin in 1936. Germany was to have held this meeting in 1916, but was prevented from conducting the games because of the war. The Teutons had made great preparations for the 1916 affair and had built their beautiful stadium four years in advance. This structure is still available and has been modernized to meet every requirement.

QUICKENING INTEREST.

The interest in athletics in Germany in the last 10 years has multiplied tenfold. In fact it is well known that athletic interest amongst the Germans is keener than in any modern country including America. Other applicants who will make a strong bid for their people are Rome, Lisbon, Barcelona, Helsinki, Buenos Aires, Budapest, Tokyo and Dublin.

If the meet were to be decided on precedence of application, Germany would have the first call and Budapest, which was awarded the games for 1920 would get the meeting of 1940. Finland has been an applicant for the next 12 years, and in that case Helsinki would have the flags fluttering over their stadium in 1944. Italy has also been a persistent bidder and should sit in with the games being held in Rome four years later. Whereas Spain or Argentina may find the sons of the present Olympic champions defending the same title in either of those countries in 1952.

What Makes a Test
Cricketer?Natural
Ability
Essential

BY A. M. CRAWLEY

During the next few weeks we shall expect to see the team which is to go to Australia gradually choosing itself.

What are the qualities which go to make a Test match cricketer?

Take the case of Sutcliffe. Now Sutcliffe is unique. For the last ten years he has been indispensable as an England No. 1, and he is a very great Test match player, yet as far as natural ability goes he is no better than a good county player.

The only reason that he has risen above the ordinary rut of first-class cricketers is through his magnificent temperament. He has the patience of Job, a dogged fighting instinct, and is never in the least ruffled by his own mistakes. Now, of course, he has also a long experience.

Sutcliffe, then, is the exception that proves a rule; that among first-class players there are a certain number who have a natural ability which at once renders them potential Test match players.

"CLASS" PLAYERS.

Leaving out those whose names are already well established, BAKER, PAYNTER, KESTON, PATAUDI, KEMP-WELCH, TOWNSEND, and VERITY are a few who at once suggest themselves, and there are others less known who have just as much cricket in them.

There are, then, "class" players in cricket in exactly the same sense as there are "class" horses in the racing world. In a batsman the difference is easy to spot. The "class" player always appears to have plenty of time. He plays easily and loosely, and is always in the right position for his strokes.

It may be that he sees that ball more quickly than others—Capt. Nayudu gave that impression at Lord's the other day—or it may be just instinctive anticipation.

In a bowler the difference is probably less noticeable from the ringside, but is none the less essential. Watch the good stock bowlers of any county—Wensley, Mercer, Gregory, Locke, Matthews, Snary. They keep an excellent length, vary their pace a little, and are always trying to do something with the ball. But you do not expect to see them run through a side; they are not Test match bowlers as Tate or Larwood is.

DECEPTIVE AVERAGES.

A bowler who has the ability to become a great bowler is always coming off the pitch a little quicker than any batsman has a right to expect. He will get life out of a dull pitch. He will beat the best batsmen at some time or another.

If you are looking for a Test match bowler you do not count the number of wickets this or that man may take. You watch how he bowls to Jack Hobbs or Frank Woolley. You see him at the end of a long day on a batsman's wicket. Averages are deceptive, and many bowlers keep their places by getting out Nos. 9, 10, and 11 with great regularity.

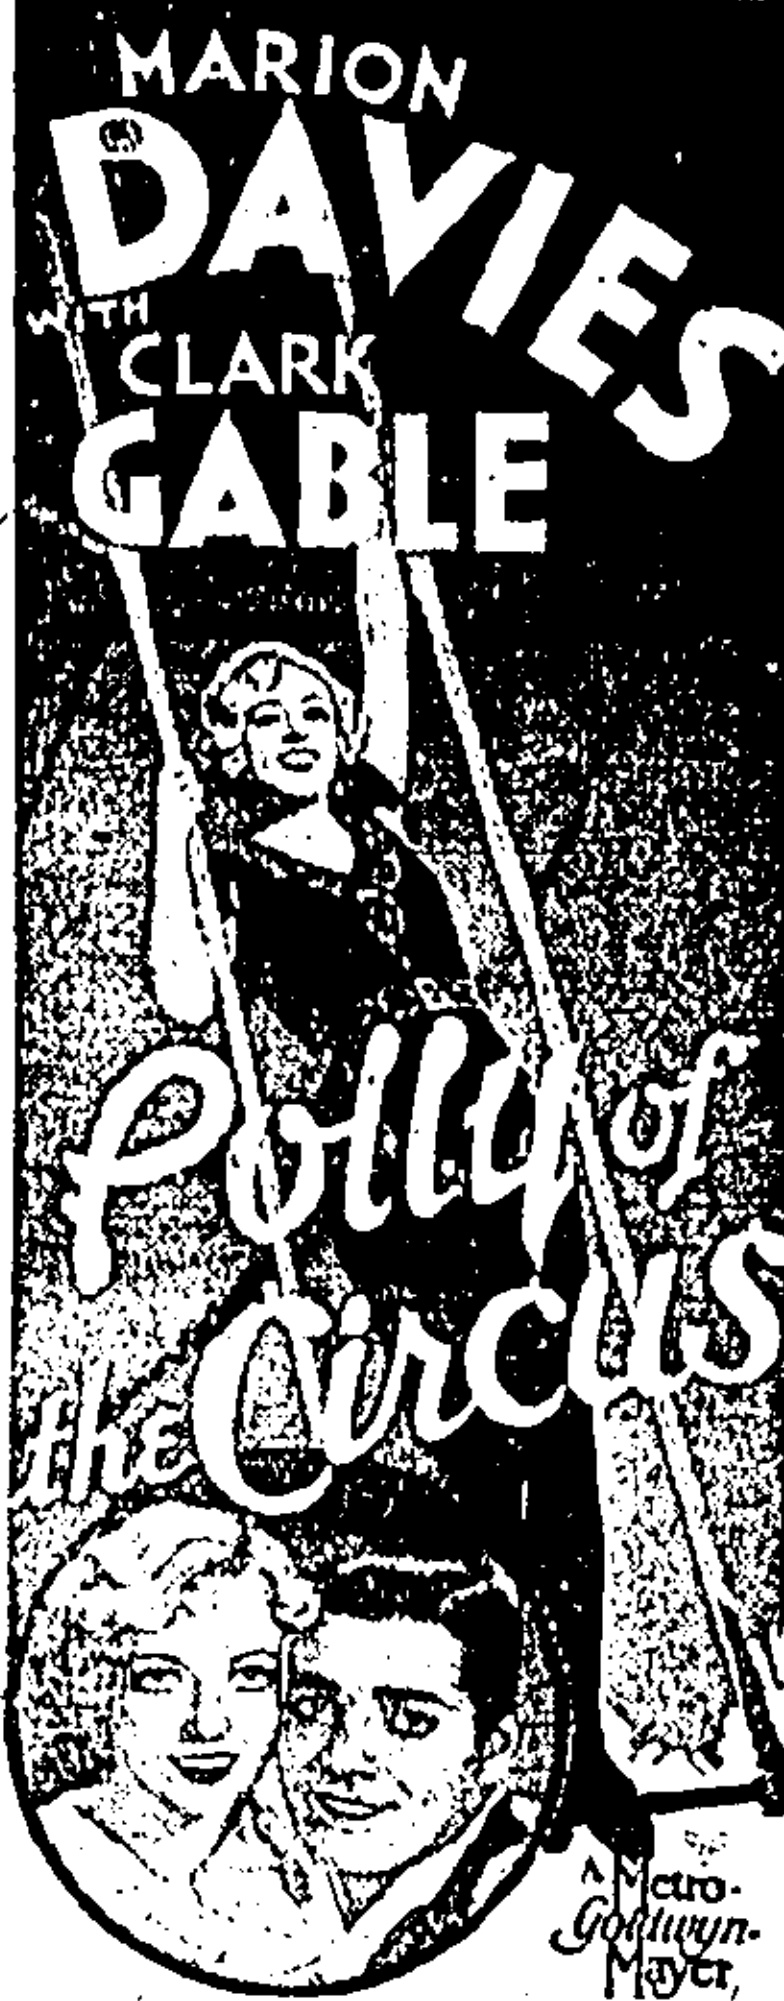

Natural ability is, then, the first essential in a Test match player. He must be a cricketer to the bone. Once given that quality, I am firmly convinced, the rest will come, but only by self-discipline and hard work.

The young player who finds himself able to bowl or bat better than the average has next to learn to control his temperament. He must learn what risks he may and what he may not take. He must learn not to make mistakes which will cost him his wicket, or which will give runs away.

All that means hard work, and meanwhile he must lose none of his brilliance. Once a natural player has learnt to control his own ability he is in a position to become a great player. It is then that the test comes, for he must produce his best at the right moment, and be able to dominate a game in any circumstances.

It is not only consistency which counts, but consistency and command. It is match-winning and not match-saving which will bring back "the Ashes."—Daily Mail.

LOCAL SANITARY REFORMS

mond for, as it is situated in a very densely populated district, and if the whole of the present site together with the surrounding grounds etc. be made available, then there ought to be enough room for a model and up-to-date hospital. The idea of accommodating the investigative staff at one headquarters is sound, but I would suggest Pokfulam as a better site as affording ground for the stabling of the cattle used in the preparation of sera.

Medical Officers.

The number of medical officers required under the new scheme is certainly large but if the greater part of this personnel be recruited locally and if the unification project could be made to materialise, then the scheme would not appear to be so ambitious and so difficult as it would seem at first sight. I note however that no mention has been made on the problem of the treatment and segregation of the leprosy and tuberculous and considering the magnitude of the scheme, this omission is somewhat incompressible.

It seems that I have dwelt somewhat lengthily on this subject of the re-organisation of the Medical and Sanitary Services, but I feel it incumbent upon me as an elected member of this Board, and a medical man at that, that I should avail myself of this opportunity in presenting to you, for the consideration of the Government, certain suggestions which the D. M. S. S. may find useful to incorporate in his plans, when the time arrives for their materialisation.

In conclusion I wish to say that the policy of re-organising the Medical and Sanitary Services, is, generally speaking, sound, and deserves the serious consideration of the Government.

Dr. Li's Endorsement.

Dr. Li Shu-fan said: As a member of this Board representing the public including the Medical profession, I feel that it is fitting that I should make a few remarks upon the recommendations so ably worked out and submitted by the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services.

I heartily welcome the scheme of reform advocated—a reform which I think is long overdue.

I believe that when the scheme is appropriately carried out it will do much in obviating the duplication of personnel, machinery and equipment, with consequent all round improvement in service and curtailment of expenditure.

I think my colleagues agree with me that the part of the recommendations dealing with the re-adjustment of the various ordinances are essentially sound. It should merit the support of the Board and the adoption by Government.

As regards the recommendations under subheading "The Medical or Curative Branch" it appears to me that there is a rather complete provision of officers both in number and in qualification. But in view of the continual prevalence and the excessive mortality of tuberculosis in this Colony I think it is imperative that one or more tuberculosis officers be provided.

Necessity for Economy.

Owing to the necessity for economy, co-operation and complete understanding in a scheme of this magnitude, I deem it advisable to take into consideration the services of the Hongkong University Clinical professors, viz. the professors of Medicine, surgery, and obstetrics. I believe the inclusion of these professors would entirely obviate the appointment of a separate set of specialists such as a senior physician, a senior surgeon, a senior obstetrician, as advocated in the recommendations. I need hardly emphasise that the professors mentioned are highly qualified specialists and that they having been for sometime rendering valued and highly appreciated public services.

I understand that at present more than half of the work in the Government Civil Hospital is being conducted by the Clinical professors and their staff at a tremendous saving of expenditure to the Government. I have reasons to believe that their work was conscientious and above reproach. Furthermore, I understand there is an agreement between the Government and the Rockefeller Foundation whereby the Clinical professors are compelled to remain at the Government Civil Hospital. As a matter of fact the annual donation from the Foundation was a source of substantial and continual help both to the University and the Government. Besides, apart from the G. C. H. there is no other Clinical teaching centre for the medical students. Hence I mention that if it is for no other reason, than that of upholding the privilege and duty of Hongkong, as being the beacon-light of education, especially in medicine, in this part of the world, we are honour-bound to give serious consideration to the University and its students. Under the same subheading

"The Medical or Curative Branch" I think that sufficient recognition has not been accorded to the fact that there are in the Colony a number of highly qualified specialists who may be willing to co-operate either in an honorary capacity or on part-time engagement.

Part-time Specialists.

I should like to point out that the usual practice of hospitals and infirmaries in Great Britain of appointing local specialists to the staffs on part-time or entirely honorary appointments has been a dependable source of economy and satisfaction.

In regard to the clause "Super-numeraries to the extent of 20% etc." I believe this estimate was based on a highly salaried European staff of large numbers who must necessarily go on long leave every few years. Here again, may we not wisely economise by utilizing local University graduates or local men who hold British University diplomas. I am entirely in accord with the recommendation that a modern Infectious Disease Hospital and Quarantine Station be built. I earnestly hope that when sanctioned it will be built in a less objectionable quarter than Kennedy Town, unless trade nuisances in the vicinity of the present hospital are permanently abated.

With reference to the recommendations on "Medical relief", I am glad to notice that contemplation was made for extending the Kowloon Hospital for another 500 patients and the rebuilding of the G. C. H. with an accommodation for another 500.

But both in the extension and in the rebuilding of the hospitals I take this opportunity to emphasize that due regard should be made for the average tax-payer by providing sufficient general ward accommodations. The practice of providing paying private wards may be quite necessary in by-gone days but owing to the existence of a number of excellent private and semi-private hospitals at the present time I consider it unnecessary and undesirable for the Government to provide private wards for paying members of the public. I think it is very hard and unfair to turn away needy patients as is being frequently done in Government hospitals for want of general

I understand at present the G. C. H. does not as a rule admit tuberculosis patients. I earnestly hope that provision will be made for them in the future hospitals unless a sanatorium is provided.

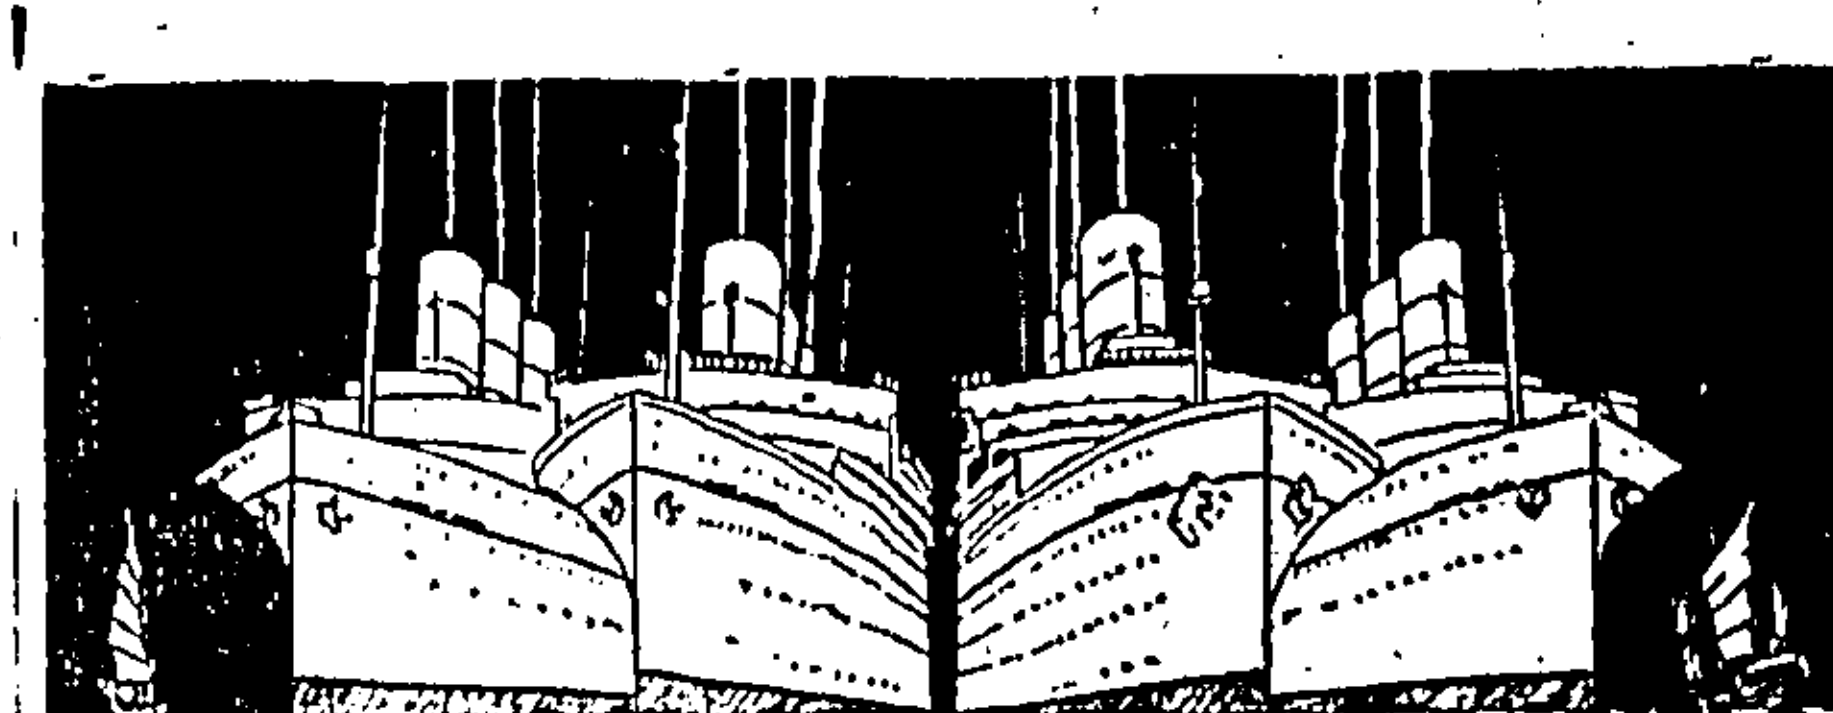

With exception to the points enumerated above I consider the scheme of reform submitted by the D. M. S. S. is one based on sound principles and is worthy of the fullest consideration and support.

Mr. Bellamy's Comments.

Mr. L. C. F. Bellamy said: The task of condensing within the compass of 6 paragraphs the unanimous views of the six unofficial members of this Board on a matter of such importance as the recommendations now before us is a very difficult one and I think Mr. Champkin is to be congratulated on his effort to co-ordinate our various views. It would, however, be very strange if the motion did not contain, here and there, features with which one or more members might be slightly out of sympathy. That is my position regarding that portion of paragraph 2 which deals with the vice-chairmanship of the Public Health Board. I am not convinced that there exists in the Colony a more suitable man for this position than the Hon. the D. M. S. S.

Coming to clause 5, which recommends that memoranda of individual members on the recommendations of the D. M. S. S. should be forwarded to Government, I may say that in my very brief memorandum I laid stress on the need for every member of this Board being supplied with a copy of Dr. Wellington's full and elaborate report of two years ago. I regret very much that this request has not been complied with as I believe that a study of his full report is indispensable to a thorough appreciation by members of this Board of the justification and adequate grounds for Dr. Wellington's recommendations.

What I like best about this motion is Mr. Champkin's happy reference in clause 6 to the policy of Public Health reform now foreshadowed for Hongkong and I hope that no avoidable loss of time will occur to delay the putting of (Continued on Page 11.)

Shanghai, Aug. 2. Learning that a remittance of 843,676 taels had been received by Sir Frederick Maze (Inspector General of Customs), from the Dai-ri branch of the Yokohama Specie Bank, representing a third of the customs revenue detained before the seizure of the Manchurian customs, the Japanese portion of the Boxer Indemnity held in suspense by the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank has been released by the Ministry of Finance.

BRILLIANT FEATS AT OLYMPICS

FIRST BRITISH VICTORY

HAMPSON WINS THE 800 METERS

Los Angeles, Aug. 2. Britain obtained her first success in the Olympic Games today when T. Hampson, generally recognized as the world's finest runner at the distance, won the 800 Metres.

Hampson won brilliantly, creating a world's record of 1 min. 49 8/10ths seconds. He was challenged at the finish by Wilson, the Canadian athlete, who also ran a splendid race, but Hampson beat him by inches in the most thrilling event of the meeting.

Britain also obtained two places in the final for the 100 Metres Hurdles. In the first semi-final, Lord Burghley occupied second place to Keller (U. S. A.) who beat the Olympic record in beating Burghley, and in the second, the world record was broken by Saling (U. S. A.). The final should provide a rare struggle. The first three in each semi-final have qualified for the final.

Stella Walsh of Poland won the women's hundred metres, Miss Hiscock (Britain) being fourth.

It is interesting to note in connexion with Hampson's brilliant victory, that Britain has won the 800 Metres race in each of the last four Olympics.

LIU BEATEN.

Liu Chang-chun, the sole Chinese competitor, failed to qualify for the two hundred metres final, after a terrific race. Liu ran strongly for three-quarters of the distance, but he was overhauled by Wright (Canada), Metcalfe (United States) and Black (New Zealand).

Liu struggled hard to beat Black out of third place, but failed by inches. Results:

CHINA'S NEW CUSTOMS DUTIES

HEAVY INCREASES ON IMPORTANT RANGE OF ARTICLES

Shanghai, Aug. 3. Drastic increases in China's customs duties are authorised by a new schedule published to-day.

The object is to raise funds to cover the deficiencies arising from the seizure of the Manchurian Customs and the new duties are to be enforced as from to-morrow, August 4.

Thirty-four items in the normal tariff schedule are affected, the chief among them being outlined below.

NEW DUTIES.

The duty on artificial silks and silk goods is increased from 58 per cent to 75 per cent.

BIG GERMAN BANK IN DEFAULT

New York, Aug. 2. Messrs. Dillon Read and Company, the well-known financiers, announce that the German Bank and Discount Company has been unable to meet its $825,000,000 Note due on September 1, owing to its inability to obtain the necessary foreign exchange.

The defaulting bank is one of the "Big Five" of Germany.

STILL ON THE OFFENSIVE

Delhi, Aug. 2. The Fakir of Alingar, who has been seeking to force a passage across the North-West Frontier into British India, is still prosecuting an active offensive and stiff fighting has resulted in many casualties.

Troops of the loyal Nawab of Dir are heavily beset by the Fakir's armed levies of Salarazais and Shamazais, but are holding out splendidly.

The Salarazais are attacking the Nawab's fort at Miskini, at the upper end of the Jandul Valley.

The Shamazais, working independently under the Fakir's direction, are threatening Mangili in the south.

The forces of the Nawab of Dir have so far proved invincible. The Nawab is being assisted by the British Government. A break through his territory would result in an invasion of British India, the Fakir's ambition.—Reuter.

MRS. BARNEY NOT TO BLAME

SATURDAY'S MOTOR CAR SMASH

Nice, Aug. 2. Countess Karolyi, the wife of the ex-President of Hungary, who was injured in a motor car smash on Saturday, is now out of danger and will be able to leave hospital shortly.

In the other car was Mrs. Elvira Barney, recently acquitted in London on a murder charge and it was suggested that she would be charged with furious driving.

To-day, however, it was indicated that the matter will doubtless be dropped as the French police are of the opinion that Mrs. Barney was not to blame.—Reuter.

OVER BY AUGUST 20

MR. BENNETT'S REVIEW

Ottawa, Aug. 3. The Imperial Economic Conference will be brought to a successful conclusion before August 20.

This was the prediction of Mr. R. B. Bennett, the Canadian Premier and chairman of the conference, in the course of an interview with international journalists to-day.

Mr. Bennett gave the impression that the Conference was advancing rapidly towards a successful issue.

He expressed the opinion that it was desirable there should be a United Kingdom preference on wheat, either by a quota system or by tariffs. He said that both methods had been explored, but no conclusions had been reached.

Referring to textiles, he said that imports into Canada would be encouraged as far as was possible without impairing any efficient Canadian industry, but he added that the Canadian cotton industry was one of the most efficient in the world.—Reuter.

THE COWES REGATTA

SHAMROCK WINS THE KING'S CUP

London, Aug. 2. At Cowes Regatta to-day, Queen Mary's Cup for fifteen-ton yachts was won by Sir Geoffrey Feilding's "Rosemary," with Major Powers' "Garuna" second, and Mr. Chaplin's "Coral" third, out of nine starters.

The King's Cup was won by Mr. Sopwith's cutter "Shamrock," with the King's Britannia less than a minute behind, and Mr. Stephenson's "White Heather" third.

Only a gentle breeze was blowing in the Solent to-day.

"Shamrock" also won the King's Cup last year when it was owned by the late Sir Thomas Lipton.—British Wireless.

KENNEDY TOWN BATHING

GOVT. TO ERECT SHED

Among the items to come before the Finance Committee of the Legislative Council on Thursday is a vote for $2,200, for a bathing shed at Kennedy Town.

It is explained that although tenders were invited, none were received. It is considered that the necessity for such a facility exists, and that Government should undertake the erection and management.

A report has been made to the police by Miss S. Bancroft, of 174, Fuk Wah Street, second floor, to the effect that some person stole a wrist watch from her flat about 5 a.m. yesterday.

Herr Hitler, whose strength is growing and who now seeks a division of power in Germany with Captain von Papen, the Chancellor.

CAN CRISIS BE AVOIDED?

HERR VON PAPEN CONFIDENT

Berlin, Aug. 2. When President Hindenburg returns to Berlin next week, he will be faced by a demand by Herr Hitler, the leader of the Nazi (Fascist) Party, for a reconstruction of the Cabinet.

Herr Hitler's intensive campaign in the last few weeks has resulted in a doubling of the Nazi representation in the Reichstag, holding 230 seats against 110.

Easily the biggest party, the Nazis are demanding a share in the direction of the affairs of the country, and the situation is not without serious possibilities, although the Chancellor, Captain von Papen, seems assured and confident.

BOLIVIA AT WAR

U.S. JOINS APPEAL FOR PEACE

STIFF FIGHTING

Washington, Aug. 2. Alarming reports are coming in of stiff fighting between Paraguayan and Bolivian troops in the Gran Chaco region, the territory which is the cause of the bitterness.

Details are lacking, but the earlier skirmishes appear to be developing in larger scale engagements and many casualties are reported.

The United States, Mexico, Cuba, Colombia and Uruguay have now signed an appeal to fourteen other American governments to join in representations to enforce peace between Bolivia and Paraguay.

Bolivia, hitherto, has shown no disposition to accept outside intervention in the quarrel with Paraguay, while the latter country has lodged a protest with the League of Nations.

Although fighting has already occurred, the United States Government is still hopeful that hostilities will be brought to an end rather than extended.—Reuter.

THE LOST CONTINENT

BRITISH SCIENTIFIC EXPEDITION

London, Aug. 2. A scientific expedition to survey the Arabian Sea and the North-West Indian Ocean is now being organised. It will, it is understood, begin operations next year.

The expenses are being largely provided under the will of the late Sir John Murray, whose researches during the Challenger Expedition last century immensely extended scientific knowledge regarding the "Ocean of the World."

Next year's expedition will be led by Colonel Seymour Sewell, the Director of the Indian Museum, Calcutta.

Parts of the Arabian Sea are of immense depth though few soundings have been taken away from the steamship routes.

LEMURIA.

The main objects will be to study the topography of the ocean bottom by echo soundings and to search for traces of the hypothetical continent of Lemuria, which is supposed to have stretched from India westwards. Oceanic fauna and currents will also be studied.

The Committee arranging the expedition includes Admiral Douglas, Hydrographer of Navy, and representatives of the Geographical and Natural History Societies under the chairmanship of Mr. J. C. Murray.—British Wireless.

AMERICA ACCEPTS INVITATION

Washington, Aug. 2. The United States had accepted the invitation to attend the world economic conference which is to be called in the late autumn under the auspices of the League of Nations.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

The most difficult thing for the player taking up contract to master is the tables of valuation.
The valuation tables for this system are made as simple as possible. The official system of valuation is confined to:

- (a) High-card tricks
(b) Low-card tricks.

Contract bridge is primarily a game of OFFENCE, hence the official system will value all honour
cards with respect to their trick-taking potentialities when played offensively. It is a fact, however,
that all high-card combinations
used in this system contain the necessary DEFENSIVE values to justify making all opening bids.
Below is given the table of high-
card tricks:

AKQ3	AQ1 1/2
AKJ2 1/2	KJ101 1/2

AK2	AQ1
AQJ1	KJ101

QJx1/2

This table is to be used for valuing the high-card tricks in the bidding hand. Slightly increased values will be added to three or four of these combinations in estimating the values of high cards when held in the supporting hand, as well as in the bidding hand, should it be advisable, for the original bidder to RE-BID.

When a player estimates the trick-taking ability of his hand,
he should calculate the value of high-card tricks, as given above,
and add to this total the value of all LOW-CARD TRICKS.

The total of HIGH-CARD and LOW-CARD TRICKS equals the number of PROBABLE TRICKS contained in the hand. Low-card tricks are valued as follows:

Count each card in the BID SUIT in EXCESS of THREE as one low-card trick.

Count each card in a side suit
in EXCESS of THREE, as worth
one trick, provided the suit contains at least five cards, and further provided the side suit and the bid suit are both strong in honour cards.

Probable tricks are the backbone of the official system. There are, exactly 13 tricks to be won,
and if a player and his partner
are able to estimate accurately
the number that can be won, if played as declarer and dummy, 99 per cent. of their troubles are over. The hands, given below show the manner in which a player contemplating making an original bid should value his holdings:

(1)
HCT	S-K Q 10 8 3	LCT	2
1 1/2	H-K 4 2	0	0
1 1/2	D-A Q 6 3	0	0

HCT—High-card tricks. LCT—Low-card tricks. PT—Probable tricks.

REFORMS

RECENT PROPOSALS
CRITICISED

AN UNOFFICIAL MOTION

Certain items in the recommendations by the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services regarding the reorganization of the Colony's medical and sanitary administration, were subject to severe criticism by the Unofficial members of the Sanitary Board at yesterday's meeting.

Mr. C. Champkin, pursuant to notice, moved:
"That, in regard to the copy of Recommendations submitted by the Honourable the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services for the Re-organization on modern lines of the Medical and Sanitary Services of the Colony, which was forwarded to the President of the Sanitary Board by the Honourable the Colonial Secretary under covering letter of the 19th April, 1932,
the views of this Board in regard to such Recommendations are as follows:

i. That it is unnecessary to create a Public Health Board which is to function separately and independently of the existing Sanitary Board.

ii. That the Constitution of the Sanitary Board be enlarged in order that it may function as a Public Health Board with the personnel suggested by the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services for his Public Health Advisory Board (except that the Vice-Chairman shall be a non-technical man, preferably the Secretary for Chinese Affairs) but with a proportionate increase in the number of the unofficial representatives of the public, (so that the existing unofficial majority be approximately maintained), such enlarged Board to exercise all the functions of the present Sanitary Board, together with the new functions contemplated
by the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services for his Public Health Advisory Board.

iii. That it is imperative in the interests of the general public that all questions of policy and expenditure of public money should be vested in the Public Health Board.

iv. That as regards the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services' recommendations under subheading "The Medical or Curative Branch", having regard to the necessity for economy in the working out of the scheme, sufficient recognition
has not been accorded to the fact that there are in the Colony highly qualified medical practitioners who may be willing to cooperate, either in an honorary capacity, or on part time engagement, or to the fact that Hongkong University Clinical Professors are, and have for some time past been, rendering valued and highly appreciated public services.

v. That copies of such memoranda on the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services'
recommendations as have been submitted to the Head of the Sanitary Department by members of this Board be forwarded to the Government for its consideration.

vi. Subject to the points enumerated above, the unofficial members of this Board are in general agreement with the policy of reform advocated by the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services."

Mr. Champkin's Speech.

Mr. Champkin said.—As a newcomer I am under the disability
—or it may well be that I have the advantage—of knowing nothing of any considerations by the Board that may have prompted this very able and interesting memorandum
by the Hon. the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services.
I approach it without knowing in what respects, if any, this

Board has so failed to function effectively as to warrant the implied criticism of the D.M.S.S.
that the Sanitary Board under this proposed new scheme will confine its activities to sanitation
in the restricted sense of the term.

The majority of my non-official colleagues are professionally
qualified to analyse these public health proposals with more perspicacity than I can claim and I would have preferred that they should have been subjected to a more detailed scrutiny than I can give them in briefly putting forward the motion that stands in my name.

I would like however to say that the motion as it stands is the considered and unanimous view of the non-official members of this Board. I think I could go so far as to say that the D.M.S.S. has laid us under a heavy obligation
by setting forth so lucidly and convincingly needs that it is clearly our duty to urge. The Sanitary Board will not stand between the D.M.S.S. and the putting into effect of such public health reforms as are obviously desirable and we non-officials are agreed that many of the reforms
he advocates are long overdue.

Internal Changes.

We appreciate the advantages of his proposals in so far as they are concerned with internal departmental changes—by which I mean changes in nomenclature, increases or reductions in personnel and improvements or additions to material and equipment.

It is of course impossible for us to hazard an opinion as to whether the public benefits of these proposals will be commensurate with the public expenditure
they will involve. There must be a point of balance somewhere and if we look upon this Board rather as the guardian of the public health than as the custodian of the public purse we may still, I hope, rely upon some unhygienic Finance Committee submitting this scheme to a more searching economic analysis than we are able to give it.

We entirely agree with the D.M.S.S. as to the advisability of a clearer demarcation, by new ordinances, or by amendments to existing ordinances, of the many interests concerned with the health, safety and convenience of the public that come within our province.

We do not however agree that it is necessary or desirable—we are emphatically of opinion that it is very unnecessary and entirely undesirable—that the carrying out of these reforms should cloak a scheme for depriving the taxpayer of his elementary right to ask questions through the elected members of this Board on matters of public interest apart from sanitation in the restricted sense of the term.

The Prevention and Treatment of Epidemics, the Sale of Food and Drugs, Factory and Workshop Conditions, the Construction of Buildings, Cattle Disease, Town Planning, matters relating to Water Supply, the Public Health and everything else except Sanitation in the restricted sense of the term—all these by a stroke of the pen are to be placed beyond public criticism. They are to be no longer matters of public concern.

Paying the Piper.

The taxpayer that pays the piper may be quite content that
the D.M.S.S. should call the tune, but if the taxpayer is to be told to mind his own business when he ventures to enquire what the tune
is, then I say he will not tolerate this deprivation of his right. The non-officials of this Board will most strenuously resist the proposed abrogation of their authority to criticize any and every department concerned with Public Health.

The suggested establishment of a Public Health Advisory Board consisting of the Hon. the Colonial Secretary, the Hon. the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services,

Dogs and cats can now be treated in a New York hospital so complete that almost any kind of operation could be performed in it. The Great Dane at left, was found upon examination to have heart trouble. The dog, upper centre, with bandaged head, had been operated upon for cancer of the eye, and the obviously pleased patient next to him had just passed a physical examination with flying colour. The canine inmate in the middle was being given an X-ray treatment, and the cat, below, was basking in the health-giving light of a violet ray lamp. That shepherd dog at right had a sinus infection, and members of the hospital staff are shown putting him back on the road to health.

LEAP YEAR BRIDE

LEAP YEAR BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY.

Cherry Dixon, pretty, 19, tells her mother she is going to a club meeting but instead meets Dan Phillips, reporter on the Wellington News. Cherry has few friends because her wealthy parents consider most of the other young people of the town socially inferior. She has become acquainted with Phillips without her parents' knowledge. She and Dan lunch together and are about to start for a drive in Cherry's father's car when another reporter tells Dan the city editor has been trying to find him. Dan Smith, a bank robber, has escaped jail and the city editor wants Dan to find him. Dan, Smith's sweetheart, and get an interview. Dan and Cherry drive to the apartment where Dan is staying. He enters, promising to return in 15 minutes. When he does not come Cherry grows nervous and goes into the apartment to find him.

CHAPTER III

Some of the names above the mail boxes tilted tipsily so that they were difficult to read. Others lacked identification of any sort. Cherry searched the list but now-where could she find the name "Baker." It must be there, though. "Baker" was what Dan had said. Unless he'd found the place he'd have come back.

But there was no such name on the list of tenants of the apartment.

The girl turned uncertainly. The exterior of the building had proven deceptive. The small square entrance way in which she stood was soiled and down-at-heel. Brown walls with hideous panels of scenic wall paper on either side. Finger marks smudging the wood-work. The simulated tile floor in need of soap and water.

What should she do?

Cherry's fears were rising. It was at that instant that a grimy urchin, capless and wearing a sweater too large for him, appeared on the other side of the outer door and stared at the girl through the glass panel.

She drew back the door. "Do you know if some people named Baker live here?" she asked.

The urchin nodded. Traces of some sticky stuff showed on his cheeks. The blue stare of impassive eyes regarded her, but the child did not speak.

"Can you tell me where to find them?"

The urchin pointed a sticky finger to the door at the left. Through the glass portion of the door a short flight of stairs was revealed. Evidently it led to a hall.

Somehow the child reassured Cherry. It couldn't be such a dreadful place if there were children about. Timidly she put a hand on the door. It opened.

She went up the steps gingerly and found herself in a long passage. There was a dim yellow light half way down the hall. Its meagre rays showed doors on either side—probably a dozen of them. Grey daylight filtered through a window on the landing where the stairs turned.

The thing to do now would be to knock at one of these doors and ask where the Bakers lived.

Cherry took two steps forward—and drew back in dismay. There were voices, men's voices, raised and angry, behind the nearest doors on the right.

The voices continued. One of them grew louder than the others. Oh, there was no doubt that the men were angry. Suddenly Cherry heard the clatter of a key turning in a lock. They were coming!

In panic, blindly, the girl ran up the stairs and turned at the landing. She heard the door open below and the men came out. Breathless, she flattened herself against the wall.

Now they were gone but she dared not go down. Stealthily Cherry crept up the stairs to the second floor. She must find someone to help her. She must find Dan!

Marshalling all her courage, Cherry stepped forward. She raised a hand and knocked at the door before her.

She could never remember the rest. The deafening roar of a gun's report, the sharp, stinging sensation in her arm, her own shriek—they seemed all to have happened at once.

Out of the darkness she was able, vaguely, to hear voices. One that was familiar. A pleasant voice. Whose was it? Cherry opened her eyes.

"That's the girl, Cherry! Feeling better now?"

Why, it was Dan who was bending over her! He seemed to have his arm about her.

"Dan—what happened?"

"Never mind about that now. Here, see if you can drink this."

He held a glass to her lips. It was sharp, biting stuff that stung her throat but she drank it. Dan's face looked worried. What was the matter?

Suddenly Cherry began to remember things. That drive down strange streets—Inez Somebody whom Dan must find—waiting outside in the car—

Cherry felt a knife-like twinge of pain in her left arm. A little moan escaped her lips. Then she saw that the arm was bandaged and there were blotches of red on the white cloth. Fright widened her eyes.

"Dan—?" she began but was interrupted.

"Listen, honey, do you think you can stand up if I put my arm around you? We want to get you to a doctor. Here, let's see if you can make it!"

She was lying on a davenport in a room she had never seen before. Strange faces were peering at her. Several women, a half-grown girl, the grimy urchin she had seen downstairs and two men. It was not an attractive room and they were not attractive faces. Her arm ached.

"Try it, Cherry," Dan prompted. "I'll help you."

Obediently she tried to rise. The throbbing pain made her awkward. Phillips lifted her, carefully and gently. When she was on her feet she leaned against him.

"I—I can make it!" she said. The girl's voice was almost a whisper. She took a step unsteadily.

"Wait—here's your coat."

They managed to get it around her, one arm in its sleeve and the other hanging loose. One of the women helped Dan. Then, slowly and painfully, they made for the door.

It had been one of the rooms on the second floor in which Cherry had found herself. They reached the hall. There Phillips picked the girl up and carried her in his arms down the stairs. Not until they had reached the entrance way did he set her down.

"Arm hurt much now?" he asked. "It's pretty sore," she admitted. "Was it—a gun that went off?"

Phillips nodded. "Might have been a look-out or just some crazy drunk. Whoever did it was gone when I got there. The main thing, child, is to get you to a doctor's office."

"They left the building. Suddenly Phillips brushed around the girl and a little in front of her. "Stay close to me!" he murmured. "And let me do the talking!"

Not six yards away, coming toward them, was a blue-coated officer and a youth.

"Just a minute there!" the policeman called. Dan and Cherry halted.

"Do you live in this building?" the policeman demanded.

WOMEN'S WORLD

BATH-TOWEL FROCKS.

Debutantes' New River Fashion.

Ordinary Turkish towelling, gaily striped or boldly patterned, has suddenly become the vogue for evening frocks worn at riverside dances.

Many couples like to go punting or for a row on the river by moonlight between dances, but women found that romance swiftly disappeared and such jaunts became decidedly expensive if delicate frocks of chiffon or satin were ruined by a splash due to a clumsy escort. So they demanded frocks which could not be spoiled, and these bath-towel gowns are the result.

Several debutantes who are fond of punting and like to show their skill on the river after dinner, are wearing them.

This type of dress fits perfectly into the background of the river, and a woman is not haunted with the fear of having her frock spoiled.

This type of dress is also decidedly slimming, for although the material is fairly thick and heavy, the stripes are used cunningly over fitting hips and down the slightly flared skirt. Even the little tailored jacket of red or blue, which matches the cash, will withstand a sudden splashing.

VICTORIA CHAPPELLE.

FASHION NOTES.

Shorter Skirts for Summer Wear.

Most couturiers advocate shorter skirts for summer wear, and more elaborate and wider sleeves. Cotton is the material which is in a mode.

It is essentially smart, and in much better taste for summer wear than the richer materials. Regarding the sleeves themselves, curious, indeed, are the excessively wide sleeves which are being shown on frocks and coats alike, and which fall deeply over a narrow band which reaches to the elbow, or just below.

Some of these are set into the armholes by means of pleats. Imagine a coat in same pale, pastel colouring, slim, and graceful, with a fitting line merging into a slight-

YOUR BEAUTY BOX.

Now is the Time to Overhaul.

Now is the time to overhaul the contents of your beauty box. Ranges and lipsticks which are greasy are all very well in the winter time, but summer calls for a more subtle mark-up, and less grease should be used, even for a skin which has a tendency to be dry. Many women, for instance, find that their complexion slowly fades away, as the natural oils of the skin begin to work, so that a small compact has to be carried if their complexion is to last through the day. Now, however, there is a new greaseless range which should stay on all day if it is properly used.

The foundation for the powder, too, should not contain too much grease, which in summer is liable to show through the powder. Some women use a foundation lotion, which is easily absorbed by the skin. If the powder is put on before the lotion is thoroughly dry, the result will be that fine matt appearance which is so much admired.

Must Be Natural.

But fashion says that, make-up this year must be as natural as possible. This needs the touch of an expert, so a famous beauty specialist gives this advice: Apply the rouge fairly heavily and lightly rub most of it off again. This will give the effect of that "school girl complexion" which is so becoming to Englishwomen.

ly flared skirt, and with two wide pouched elbow sleeves, pleated into a deep armhole, and you will have some idea of the effect of this new sleeve.

Backless evening gowns, with bodices which are cut away in front and just above the waist on each side, are the latest surprise in the Paris dressmaking world. Several false décolletées are interesting, too. Fine silk net in flesh tones is used to build up the cut-out back, under-arms, and front of the gown, and very striking this is.

The patterns run from the quaint posy pattern to exotic large flowers. For instance, gold and greens blossom on a black ground, and in mousseline-de-soie, was the material for a trained evening gown, very décolletée both back and front.

DOING YOUR WORST.

The Lesser of Two Evils.

Have you ever deliberately set out to do your worst?

Not, you understand, for the sake of seeing how bad it can be, but just for the sake of getting something done, when you are in one of those moods which make your best impossible and you cannot see a possibility of doing anything in between.

A firm belief that one cannot do a thing well is certainly not likely to add to one's skill, but if there is no one else to do it, and it ought to be done, one must realise the fact that this is no time for concentrating upon one's lack of skill.

Rather is it a moment for practising that self-confident, know-it-all spirit so detestable in ordinary circumstances, but really necessary in emergency.

After all, there are many people who have achieved great things in the world who owe the discovery of their powers to the necessity to act in an emergency, and there are many, many more who achieve a respectable average of useful work which they would never touch if they were determined at all times to do nothing less than their best.

As a matter of fact, one's worst is often not nearly so bad as one imagines, and if there is no one else to fill the gap it is sound philosophy to choose the lesser of two evils and do our best—even if it be our worst.

BEST MATERIALS.

Colour in Lingerie.

Colour is superlatively important where lingerie is concerned. This may match the accessories of your costume, or the costume itself. Turquoise lingerie to "tie up" with turquoise accessories is the preferred under-tone. Ash-pink is another. White or black-and-white day time lingerie is to be had for the millions of magpie devotees.

Materials in the preferred category are crepe-de-chine, lustrous satin, silk-linen, and silk batiste.

Giving New Life to Dull Hair.

The platinum blonde, though passe now, did her bit for all women.

That bit, the important bit, consisted of establishing the fact that a girl can affect any artificial colour she likes in her hair and flaunt it, not hide it or be ashamed of it.

What I do mean is—why not look your hair over and if it is drab, do something about it? Every girl should have lovely hair. Drab hair isn't pretty. It isn't the least bit attractive.

The same hair, rinsed with one of the golden rinses, may take on an amazingly lovely character. Or perhaps you look better with something not the least bit reddish, but just a lemon rinse which bleaches just the least bit and brings out your colour.

Camomile shampoos can be had which are particularly good for the girl with light hair that is just naturally light, not red, not gold. Before your mother was born ladies appreciated the effect of camomile and used it.

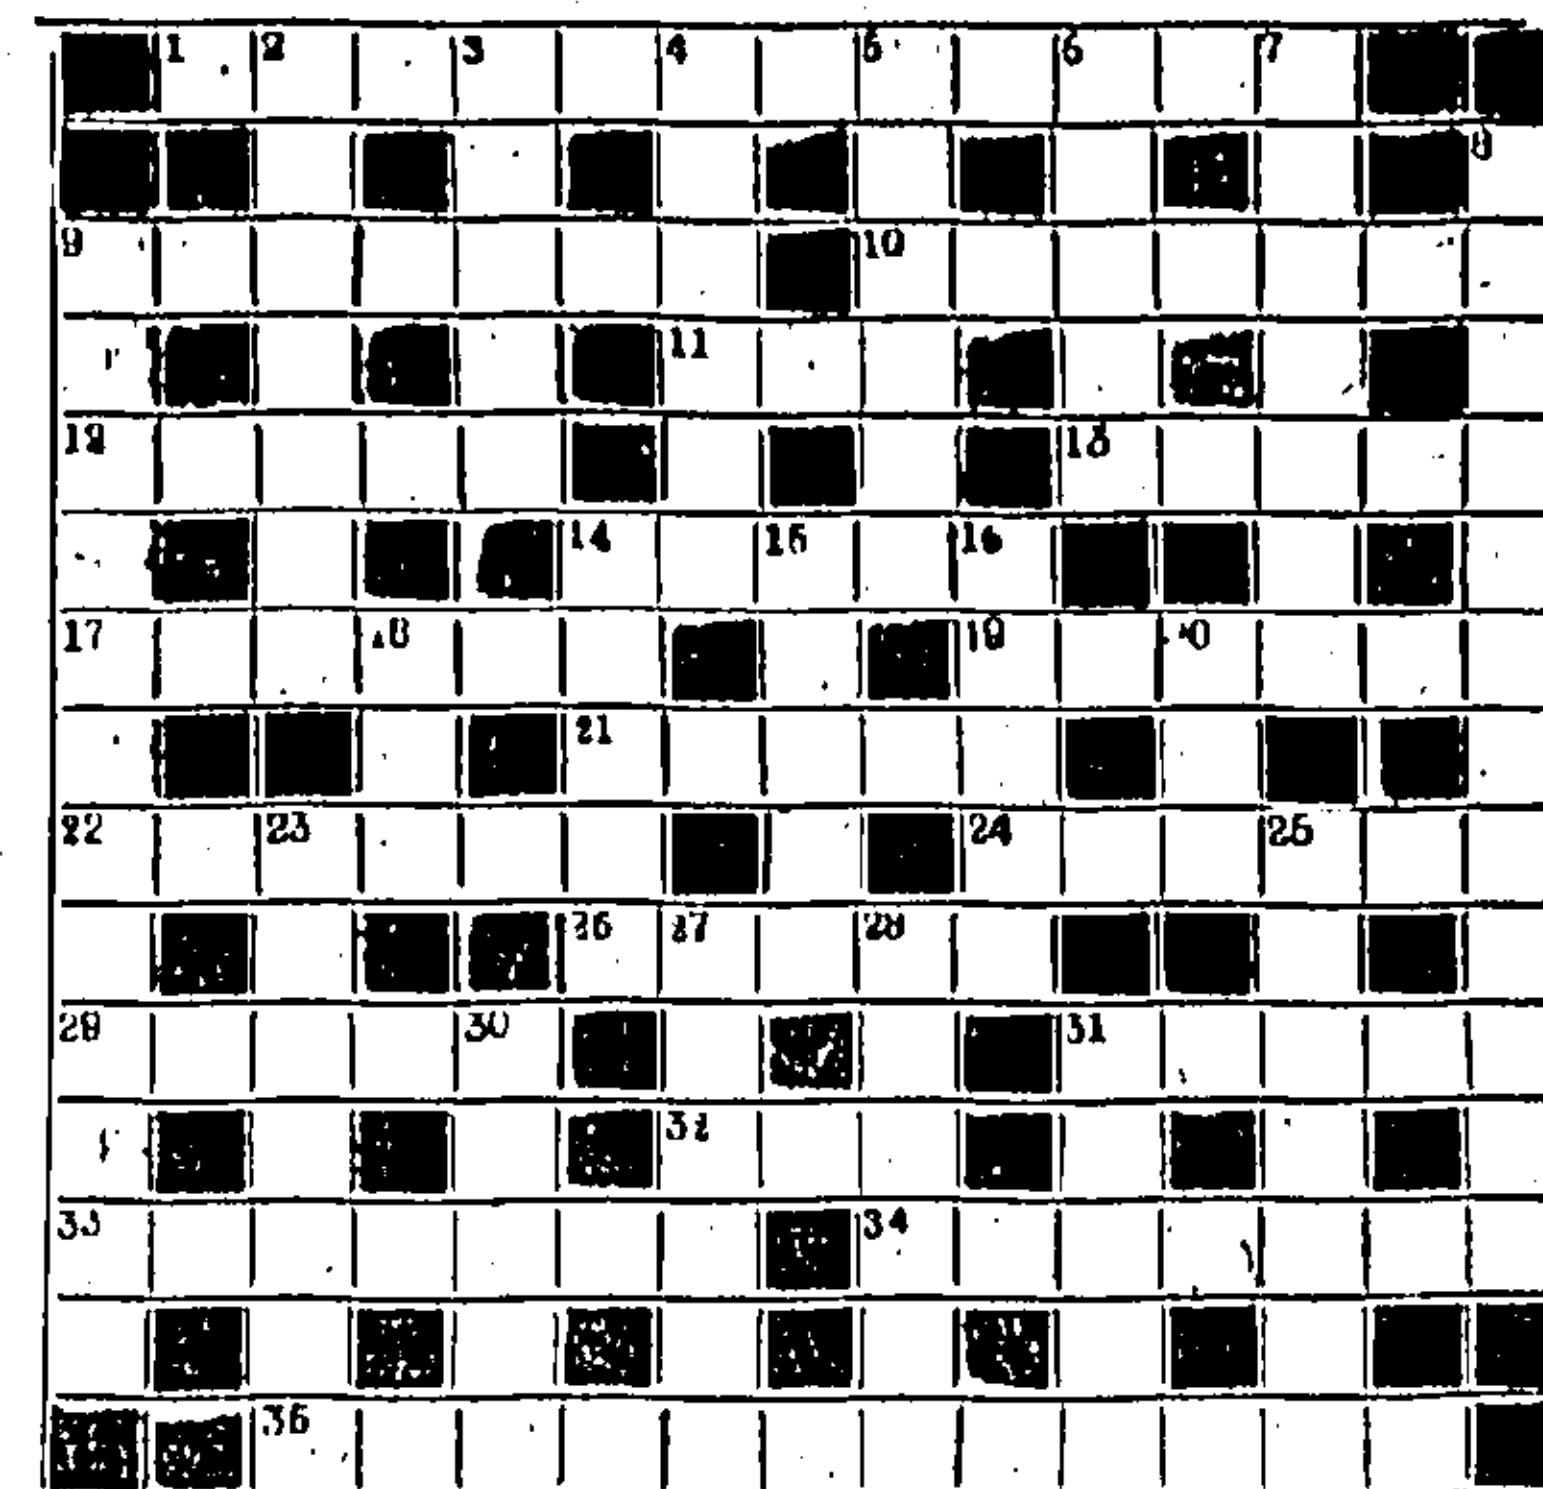

Women in England have continued using it while Americans have practically forgotten how beneficial the herb can be. Why not try it?

There are several tested rinses on the market that don't hurt your hair. Most of them do dry it out a bit. But you can counteract that by using an oily tonic. It comes out even and you look better for the bargain.—ALICIA HART.

all transparency via your lingerie has its partisans for evening also, and the dressmaker who dresses her mannequins only in pink silk jersey bathing-suits under flowing evening skirts has not succeeded in her daring plan.

As a matter of fact, there is a great gasping going on in the best society over the idea, and a great protest from husbands. However the only real nice foundation for an evening gown is the crepe-de-chine of Chiffon combination that reaches just to, or below the knees.

MAN KILLED BY LIGHTNING.

London, Aug. 2.
A fierce storm broke over London this afternoon when the city, like the rest of the country was bathed in sunshine. Crowds were driven to shelter from the torrential rain and the blinding flashes of lightning. The East End suffered most. Many houses and other buildings were struck, and the roads became temporary rivers, flooding the subways and stopping traffic, while the drains were so taxed with the weight of the water that manholes were forced into the air with loud reports.

Three cricket spectators at Twickenham fell after one flash. One was killed and another injured.—Reuter's Special Service.

LOOKING BACK

In connexion with Mr. Chamberlain's plea at yesterday's meeting
of the Sanitary Board for the preservation of the right of the public
to make itself heard on health problems, it is worth while to recall
some interesting developments
which occurred nearly forty years
ago when the reconstruction of
the Board was under consideration. To gain a full appreciation
of the matter, it needs stating
that, a year or so previously, a
petition had been sent home to the House of Commons, by residents of the Colony. The demands put forward included a
majority of elected representatives
on the Legislative Council, complete control in Council over local
expenditure, the management of
local affairs, and a consultative
voice in questions of an Imperial
character. Incidentally, it may be
mentioned that the Marquis of Ripon, who was then the Secretary
of State, whilst not conceding the
full demands, put forward certain
ideas as being worthy of consideration, one of these being the
creation of a Municipal Council.
Shortly afterwards, however, Mr.
Joseph Chamberlain succeeded
Lord Ripon and he expressed him-
self against the suggested Municipal Council, arguing that it would
be difficult to draw the line between Colonial and Municipal
matters.

It was whilst these matters
were under discussion that the
question of reconstructing the
Sanitary Board arose. Sir William Robinson was Governor at
that time, and he prepared a draft
Bill constituting a Board of three
official and two unofficial members,
the latter to be elected by the rate-
payers. Mr. Chamberlain approved of this Bill, but some few
months later, Sir William Robin-
son advised him that the measure
did not appear to be acceptable to
the British community, and that
accordingly he had taken a plebiscite on the question as to whether the Board should have an
official or an unofficial majority.
The result was that 331 voted for
an unofficial majority and 31
against. This result apparently
so upset the Governor that he advised Mr. Chamberlain of his (Sir William's) view that he favoured
sanitary affairs being placed direct-

ly under Government control and
managed entirely by a Department responsible to the Governor.

The upshot of it all was that
Mr. Chamberlain declined to take
any steps whatever towards re-
constituting the Board, holding
that it would be far better for the
matter to be considered by the next
Governor, who would be able to
approach the issues de novo. Sir
William Robinson, however, was
rapped over the knuckles for
having taken a plebiscite amongst
the British community. He was
frankly told by the Secretary of State that "it is inconsistent with Crown Colony government to seek
the guidance of a plebiscite; and
in no community whatever, whether Crown Colony or not, can a
satisfactory solution of a question, in which the whole body of
the ratepayers and many outside
that body are interested, be in-
duced from an expression of the opinions of one section alone." Much later, of course, the Sanitary Board was put on a better footing,
with a large element of unofficials,
admitted. The value of the services of these unofficial members
has again and again been attested,
and it is well that their rights as
representatives of the public should
be safeguarded.

Can London Lead the Ladies?

The laws which govern women's
dress are mysterious, and the
sultans of style who issue their
decrees to the world have long had
their divan in Paris. Rebel movements have from time to time
been started, it is true, and rival
claimants have occasionally appeared in London, in New York,
and even Shanghai. But always,
in the long run, Paris has won,
and dressmakers have turned to
the French houses for their
models. But will it always be so?
In London at the present moment
a more determined effort is being
made than ever before, not perhaps to wrest the palm from Paris,
but at least to share it with her.
The royal family is interesting
itself in the movement. Debu-
tantes at court this year were
expected to wear all-English
dresses. Mrs. Baldwin threw open
her drawing-room in Downing
Street to displays of British silks.
Special dress shows were organized for the British Industries Fair,
and a group of well-known English dressmakers have co-operated in holding fashion parades. Patriotism, in other words, has been called in to redress the
balance of exotic taste. But it
will succeed only if the dress-
makers are able to produce the
goods; for patriotism and dow-
diness do not go well together.
There are two secrets in the
success which Paris has hitherto
enjoyed. One is the innate taste
of the Parisian designer; the
other lies in the practice of cooperation. In France the manufacturers of fabrics have always
been in direct touch with those
who make up materials and design
dresses; and the latter have been
in touch with one another. The art of designing fabrics has been
co-ordinated with the art of de-
signing dresses. The whole dress
trade is controlled by a group,
and if the group adds twelve
inches to the length of Paris
dresses, then the women of Hong-
kong, of Cape Town and of Mel-
bourne sooner or later add twelve
inches to the length of theirs.
The style engineers who are now
operating in London are aware of
this, and are making heroic efforts
to bring the leading dressmakers
of London together, and to corre-
late their work with that of the
makers of silk and woollen fabrics.
This favourable moment when fair
debutantes are so ready to "buy British" offers them a first-rate
opportunity to show they can rival
the magicians of Paris.

Professor W. I. Gerrard, of the Hongkong University, delivered a most interesting and educational
address on "Quackery" as it affected
the medical profession, to members of the Rotary Club at the weekly tiffin yesterday.

The physician of to-day, said
Prof. Gerrard, differed materially
from his predecessor of 100 years
ago. The "bedside manner," and all that went with it to cover up
ignorance, had given place to
sound scientific knowledge in the
person of the fully-qualified medical practitioner of to-day.

Professor Gerrard said it is
man's ignorance of how to live
which brings him to suffering and
the untimely grave. Only scientific medicine can guide away from
the dangers which threaten him
amid the morasses of civilization.
Here the qualified medical man
reigns supreme, and here his pre-
rogative can never be assumed by
the man who having no sound
knowledge of the make-up and
functioning of the body, yet pro-
fesses to remedy its ills.

Rotarian M. F. Key also delivered an interesting paper on the
same subject, during which he thanked Professor Gerrard on behalf of the club.

For What Have We to Offer?—Says Silas K. Hocking.

THE eternal warfare between
youth and age is raging more
vigorously to-day than ever before,
and has culminated in age pursuing
a furious onslaught on the younger generation, which has, I feel, in
the name of justice, gone rather
too far.

In fact, I venture to suggest that
in lashing youth with the harsh
whip of criticism we are in grave
danger of overlooking our own
faults, and were we to turn the
spotlight on ourselves for a moment, we should find reflected not a
few of those faults unjustly laid
at the door of youth.

In reality age is, and always has
been, a little jealous of youth, and
in many cases that jealousy is ill-
concealed under a very thin veneer
of affability—a fact which young
people are quick to recognise and
respond to, by adopting a "don't
care" attitude, and an injured feeling that they are "up against it."

I have many a time seen an older
woman rating her youthful sister
for being a "heartless little flirt,"
or a "brazen hussy," when all the
time one suspects she is jealous
because her own faded looks no
longer attract, and because the presence of a young and pretty girl
reminds her of her own crabbed
age and lost opportunities. And
so she becomes "dog-in-the-man-
gerish," and tries tyrannically to
assert that "what I never had,
neither shall you have!"

The Victorian Mind.

Why should we be jealous of the
privileges which young people to-
day have firmly asserted as their
rights, or sneer at their hardly
earned independence—an independence for which, as a matter of
fact, we ourselves are responsible?
For the seed was undoubtedly sown
in the early days of the war—a
war of our own making, and in
which youth had no hand. And
now, when young people have
thrown aside most of our prewar
conventions, we are inclined to look
sideways at their emancipation,
and to chide them for discussing
those things which in our time
neither old nor young discussed.

It is time that we grown-ups
shook off some of our Victorian
prudery and conventions, which
were at best only an appearance of
virtue, and recognise that delightful honesty and frankness of speech
of which youth to-day can boast,
and which some people mis-call
"precocity" and "brazenness."

I do not think that youth to-day
is immoral—neither do I think that
in most cases young people misuse
their freedom, but rather that their
principles are strengthened by the
constant temptations with which
this new freedom is bound to bring
them into conflict. After all, immortality in our time was largely shrouded by the cloak of convention, which safeguarded to a certain extent its apparentness. But
were we more moral?

What have we to offer youth in
return for our demand on their respect and admiration? Are the
divorce courts any example of our
right to assume authority over the
young? I think not! For they are
sprinkled with a goodly proportion
of middle-aged and old, who should
by now have arrived at years of
discretion. Youth to-day is confronted with a world-wide depression, an atmosphere of defeatism
brought about largely by the older
generation.

We have helped to destroy creeds
and beliefs and long established
conventions, and given youth a fine
old tangle to unravel. How can we expect them to grapple alone with

these problems while we sit com-
fortably back in our armchairs and
criticise? After all, in our own
time, and I am speaking of the
years from 1890-1914, life flowed
on in comparative peace and prosperity. It was in fact, a golden
age, and brought with it a sense
of security. To-day there is no
security, and youth is at grips with
life as we never were.

Real Help.

There are some grown-ups to-
day who strike me as being far less
responsible and dignified than their children. Parents who frivol and
pose—as being "marvellously
young," and who are too busy forming a "good time" themselves to
care whether they are drifting.
Then there are many elderly
people, particularly women, who
have spent the best years of their life in dreary old age. When it comes, they refuse to recognise its
presence, but strive instead to
snatch the prize which they are
losing, from youth—to cheat youth,
in fact, of its rights. Youth might aptly retort here that those who wish to be young again have given
a sure proof that they have not
made a satisfactory use of their
life!

I think we can best help youth,
not by preaching or interfering, but
by seeking their comradeship. By discussing with them their many
problems we shall give them far
more help than by assuming a dic-
tatorial manner, which so many
grown-ups imagine is the prerogative
of age. If we want the companionship of youth then we must
adopt a "give and take" method,
and try to view life from their
standpoint rather than expect them
to live in our past.

Many parents complain that
their children no longer enjoy home
life, but want to live independently,
and this is so often because all
their home offers them is criticism
of their friends and their ways, and
unless they meekly conform to the
line chosen by their parents, life
becomes a series of conflicts.

I think we are apt sometimes to
criticise youth's waywardness,
when a little praise or encourage-
ment would far more easily
eliminate the fault. There are
many young people who suffer
from what is known to-day as "the
inferiority complex" because they
have been made to feel their faults
rather than their more pleasing
qualities. I am thinking at this moment of a young boy I know who
has suffered severely at the hands
of nagging parents. "John, don't do this," or "must you do that?" is his daily portion, yet never once
have I heard a word of praise or
encouragement when he returns
from school top of his class, or
with a prize.

No, until the older generation is
prepared to accept the spirit of
"camaraderie," there will never be
a truce, and the barriers between
age and youth will become insur-
mountable.

THE REAL EPSTEIN:

WHAT strange ideas one gets
into one's head about celebri-
ties. Never having seen even a photograph of him, I had always
imagined Epstein as a very thin
dark man, and from what I had
seen of his work put him down as a
highly strung and intensely erratic
almost volcanic personality.

Imagine, then my astonishment
when, meeting Epstein for the first
time over the tea-table at his house
in Hyde Park Gate, I found my
notions of him all topsy-turvy.

Instead of a terribly tempera-
mental being, there was a man
whose gifts as a host could not be bettered. Instead of the anticipated exhibition of artistic
"nerves," I was treated to an exhibition of old-world courtesy and
kindness.

So thoroughly was I made at
home that in no time I forgot the
world-wide fame of the man entertaining me. All the time Epstein talked vivaciously, evincing a
strong sense of humour and a rich
store of knowledge on all topical
subjects.

But one thing I particularly
noticed was his reluctance to talk
either about his art or himself. It seemed as though art and life were
two separate things in his make-up.

A Devoted Father.

I glimpsed another sidelight to
this remarkable man's character
through observing his attitude towards his little daughter, Peggy
Jean, whose long blonde locks re-
minded me at once of Alice in Wonderland. Both in look and in
action I have never seen a father
so devoted to his daughter.

It was as a result of this ten in Hyde Park Gate that I came to act
as a model for Epstein, and
although a model has but little
chance of looking round and taking
things in, the impressions I gained
while sitting did much to reveal
Epstein as an artist to me.

"Don't mind," he said before we
began, "if I swear a bit, as this
day is often troublesome." But

SINKING OF DOCK TUG EDITHBOATSWAIN'S STORY OF MISHAP*TIN YAT'S COURSE

The Marine Court of Inquiry into the circumstances attending the collision between the s.s. Tin Yat and the steam tug Edith, in which the latter was sunk on the night of July 25, was opened this morning at the Marine Court.

The Court was composed of the Hon. Comdr. Hole (President), Lt.-Comdr. L. G. Addington, R.N., Captain Stringer, master of the s.s. Kwangchow, Captain J. P. Williams, master of the s.s. Proteus, and Captain A. W. Muir, master of the s.s. Tung On.

Mr. Hall Brutton appeared on behalf of Captain W. Perritt, master of the s.s. Tin Yat, Mr. R. A. Wadson represented Mr. A. MacInnes, master of the Henry Keswick, and Mr. F. J. Jenner, boatswain of the Edith, while Mr. Hugh Jones appeared for Captain J. Pederson, master of the Hirundo.

Mr. F. J. Jenner was the first witness called. He said that on the night of July 25, acting on orders, he went on board the Edith and proceeded down the harbour towards the western entrance. North of Lamma Island he asked the coxswain to heave to, and with his glasses kept a look-out for the lights of the Henry Keswick. He picked her up and got into verbal contact with the master of the Henry Keswick, after which the Edith got alongside the starboard side of the Hirundo, which was being towed by the Henry Keswick.

GETS CLOSER.

They then proceeded along the coast between Stonecutters Island and Quarantine Island. Across the western entrance of the harbour he noticed a river steamer coming down from east to west. He could see both the starboard and masthead lights of the river steamer. The order of the two was the same as before, the Henry Keswick in front and the Edith alongside. He did not know the course or the speed of the Henry Keswick.

The river steamer at first appeared as if she were going to cross the Henry Keswick's bow. Then she appeared as if she was going to pass through the Henry Keswick and the bow of the Hirundo. Later it appeared as if she were going to strike the Hirundo. The Captain of the Hirundo then called to witness saying, "What the hell is the silly fool trying to do?"

STEAMER SIGHTED.

Witness then spoke to the coxswain of the Edith, and told him to sound his whistle, which he did with two long blasts. The river steamer was then about four hundred yards ahead of the starboard bow of the Edith. He could see her two masthead lights and the port light. He lost sight of her starboard light when she appeared to be close to the Henry Keswick's bow.

The Henry Keswick had three masthead lights, port and starboard lights and bow and deck lights. The Hirundo had port and starboard lights and bow and deck lights. The Edith had two masthead lights, port and starboard lights.

The Henry Keswick and the Hirundo both took up the sounding of the whistles. The Hirundo's engines were stopped while she was in tow.

THE COLLISION.

Within a few moments the river steamer crashed into the Edith on the starboard bow at an angle of about 45 degrees. The river steamer seemed to hang for a moment, and then went astern. He walked from the port side to the starboard side of the bridge to have a look at the name of the river steamer. He saw it was the s.s. Tin Yat.

As soon as the Tin Yat cleared from the Edith, the Edith's fore cabin fell down, and her fore deck was awash. Her bow tow wire was carried away, and she swung round and assumed a position stern-on with the Hirundo's stern. The Edith's stern tow wire was then carried away, and she settled down in the water.

THROWN INTO WATER.

He and the crew of the Edith were all thrown into the water. They were in the water for about half an hour, when they were picked up by a boat from the Tin Yat, and taken aboard that ship.

Witness then asked the Edith's coxswain to muster his crew and report to him. The coxswain reported that he lost his two sons; one fireman was drowned, and two others missing. The missing men were later found on the Henry Keswick, having been picked up by a boat from the Hirundo.

NO OPINION ON CAUSE.

In reply to Comdr. Hole, witness said that altogether three were drowned. Two of them had been

P.W.D. CLERK'S HOUSEHOLDTWO UNREGISTERED MUI TSAI

The story of how a mui-tsai bound herself to work for seven years for a nominal wage for a young woman but subsequently repented the step, was told to Mr. Schofield when Lai Yuet-foon, 23, concubine of a Public Works Department clerk, was summoned for keeping an unregistered mui-tsai, namely Hung Yin-fong, 20 years of age.

The woman told the Court that until ten months ago the girl was a mui-tsai in another family. She was ill-treated and raped.

Her plight evoked pity and feeling that it would be an act of charity, she lent the girl a sum of $180, with which she redeemed herself.

WORKING OFF DEBT.

The condition attendant on this assistance was, however, that she should work for her for seven years; in other words, that she should work off this debt, a repayment by monthly instalments of slightly over two dollars. She was also to receive and had so far received, fifty cents as pocket expenses.

Asked if he agreed with the woman's statement, Inspector Fraser replied: "Not exactly." The girl herself came to his office on July 2, reporting that she wished to leave the woman but that the latter had not agreed to it.

The girl formerly was presented to a man named Lai Kok, a schoolmaster living at Shumchuh. She became acquainted with the mother of the woman now appearing as the defendant, and asked the elder woman if she could redeem her from Lai Kok.

MENTAL WORK.

The elder woman communicated with her daughter in Hongkong, who agreed to pay the $180 asked for by Lai Kok, and redeemed the girl. Taken into the defendant's household, she did mental work in a large household which consisted of the husband, a clerk at the P. W. D., the tin fong wife, a concubine and eight children. There were no other servants than a cook and a girl who was also found to be an unregistered mui-tsai, kept by the tin fong wife.

Inspector Fraser questioned regarding the future of the girl, stated that she was told by defendant that she could not leave unless she repaid the money with interest. A fine of $50 was imposed.

TIN FONG FINED.

In the case against Ho San-hing, the tin fong wife, Inspector Fraser said the girl concerned was 20 years old.

She was presented to defendant about five years ago by a former employer. She received no wages, and complained of being under-nourished. It was in the course of investigations in the other case that this girl was discovered.

His Worship inflicted a fine of $75.

THE LATE MR. F. L. MARQUESLARGE ATTENDANCE AT FUNERAL

trapped in the Edith's fore cabin. In reply to Mr. Wadson, witness said he could not give the bearing of the Tin Yat when he first sighted her. He was no judge of the cause of the collision, and he could not give any reason for it. He did not think that the Henry Keswick, the Hirundo or the Edith could have prevented the collision.

Replying to Mr. Hall Brutton, witness said he could not tell the length of the tow between the Henry Keswick and the Hirundo. Evidence is continuing, and the hearing was resumed this afternoon.

GOVT. EMPLOYEE CONVICTEDASSAULT ON LADY VISITOR

Gregorio Mario Santos, a Sanitary Department foreman, in charge of Tsimshatsui Market, appeared before Mr. Fraser at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning on three charges, (1) indecent assault, (2) common assault, and (3) disorderly conduct, the complainant being Miss Wong Yim-fong, a visitor from Shanghai, passing through Hongkong for Saigon. Inspector Elston prosecuted.

His Worship:—These are serious charges. Do you plead guilty to them?

Defendant:—I don't know what happened. I had had a little drink then. I can't remember anything.

His Worship:—But do you admit these charges?

Defendant:—I don't know what happened. I'll plead not guilty.

Miss Wong testified that at about 8 o'clock last night, she boarded a bus bound for Tsimshatsui. Defendant got in later and made certain overtures to her, and finally interfered with her.

Corroborative evidence was given by other witnesses.

Defendant reiterated that he did not know what had happened. He was drunk at the time and did not know what he was doing.

Defendant went on to say that he had been in the Government service for close on 30 years, and had never done anything wrong.

His Worship decided that there was insufficient evidence to convict on the charge of indecent assault, but found defendant guilty of common assault, on which charge he was fined $100 or one month. On the third charge, of disorderly conduct, defendant was bound over in the sum of $100 to come up for judgment in 12 months.

In imposing these penalties, his Worship remarked that the public must be protected.

Inspector Elston informed his Worship that many complaints had been received recently in regard to similar incidents.

SHOOTING SCENE IN WANCHAIWOUNDED MAN BEFORE COURT

A scaffold worker who last month was shot in the leg by a Chinese plain-clothes man during a brawl in Taiyuen Street, Wanchai, and was only recently discharged from hospital, was brought before Mr. Schofield this morning and charged with disorderly conduct and with resisting arrest.

Sub-Inspector Rozesky said that accused, siding with a younger brother in a squabble at a street fountain, was fairly launched on a fight with bamboo poles, when the constable intervened, and was in his turn assaulted and struck on the head.

The accused, who was alleged to have struck the blow, claimed that he was not aware of the P.C.'s identity, but, be that as it may, he struggled so violently that the constable had to fire his revolver, aiming at the ground. The bullet entered the man's leg below the knee.

His Worship exonerated the constable from all blame. He bound the accused over on the first charge. On the other charge resisting arrest, His Worship inflicted a small fine of $5. It was possible that the man did not know that he was fighting a policeman.

PENINSULA HOTEL CONCERTS. W. B. MALE CHOIR ON SUNDAY

The concert held at the Peninsula Hotel Sunday again proved to be very popular. At the finale the audience cheered and cheered and the orchestra was compelled to play the last part of the popular selection "Community Land" as an encore.

A particularly good reception was given to the cello solo played by Mr. Podolsky accompanied by the full orchestra, and in response to repeated encores, Mr. Podolsky selected a very sweet Scots melody.

Mr. C. Reginald Anderson was kind enough to render two very good songs, "Arise O Sun" by Craske Day, and "Little Lady of the Moon" by Eric Coates. Mr. Anderson, who is already well known to music lovers of Hongkong, proved once more his excellent qualities. As an encore, he sang a serenade, "Marchita," which met with general favour. It would be difficult to find a better accompanist at the piano than Mr. W. R. Fleming.

It is announced that for next Sunday, the Manager of the hotel has succeeded in his endeavour to

CORRESPONDENCE.Tennis Dispute.

[To the Editor, Hongkong Telegraph.]

Sir,—The letter written by your correspondent "Bus" is about as comprehensive as a crossword puzzle. But none the less I gather that he is defending the stand taken by the C. R. C. in claiming the 2 points from the S. C. A. A. letter so incoherent deserves no answer, so instead I will endeavour to reply to "Sportsmanship," whose outburst appeared some days back in your paper. In that letter he defined sportsmanship as being according to rules, all of which is very well, so the following article, which appeared in the Illustrated Sporting & Dramatic News of July 2nd 1932, under the able pen of "A. W. M.", in connection with the recent Wimbledon tournament, will doubtless shock him:—

"In the Shields v. Andrews match, there was also an incident. Andrews injured his ankle when he appeared to have victory within his grasp. Shields insisted that first-aid should be rendered, waiting ten minutes for his opponent to come back. He could have claimed the match according to the strict letter of the law at Wimbledon. Frank Shields is not that kind of man."

Heretofore the C.R.C. attitude in all forms of sport has been a fair one, practically flawless in fact, especially under the Ng Sze-kwong regime. But we are all human and therefore liable to err. Every Club has a lot to learn, and if the C.R.C. admit their mistake I am sure the S. C. A. A. would be the first to extend their hand.—Yours, etc.,

TENNIS.

UNREGISTERED MUI-TSAIWOMAN'S TECHNICAL OFFENCE

When Li Wong-shi, aged 22, was summoned before Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court this morning with keeping an unregistered mui-tsai, Inspector Fraser, Child Welfare Inspector at the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs, asked the Court to treat it as a technical offence.

The woman, the Inspector explained, of her own accord went to the office on June 19, and reported that she wished to register a girl on the books as a mui-tsai. Inquiries instituted thereafter showed that the girl was presented by her parents, who were in poor circumstances, to the woman's mother in Canton a few years ago, what was known as "ginger and vinegar money" to the extent of $100 being paid to the parents.

Recently he girl, who is five years of age, was brought to Hongkong and had since been employed by the woman looking after her little daughter, and doing light household work. She appeared, said the Inspector, to have been well-treated and seemed also to have formed an attachment for her employer.

His Worship said that under the circumstances he thought a fine of $10 would meet the case.

The woman was fined that amount and informed that its small extent was due to her having herself reported the case.

SWIMMING GALACHINESE TEAMS TO APPEAR AT Y. M. C. A.

Tonight's swimming gala at the Y.M.C.A. Kowloon promises to provide some keen swimming as teams and members from the South China Athletic Association and Chinese Bathing Club are to compete in open events against the Y.M.C.A.

The open events include events over 50 yards for men and women swimmers, and a team race between the three clubs. There will be a novelty race and the usual 50 yards handicap for the members aggregate.

At the conclusion of the swimming the Y.M.C.A. will meet a team from South China in a water-polo game, which promises to be exceptionally well contested.

CENTURY

London, Aug. 2. THE bold challenge being made by Sussex for leadership of the county cricket league is being just as boldly met by Yorkshire who occupy top position at the present, and they have added another decisive victory of an innings to the season's record to enable them to keep well ahead of their rivals.

Meeting Lancashire at Manchester they fairly outplayed their neighbours, Sutcliffe scoring his eighth century of the season and Verity adding to his splendid bowling record.

DERBY'S ESCAPE

V. W. C. Jupp, the brilliant Northants all-rounder, who has displayed exceptionally fine form with the bat and ball this season, added another achievement to his imposing record when Northants met Leicester and suffered defeat by an innings and 14 runs.

Jupp actually scored 106 runs out of a total of 167, making a superb effort to avert the innings defeat. It was made in vain, however, the brilliant batsman receiving no support from his colleagues. Geary and Astill wrought the damage for Leicester, the former helping himself to seven wickets for 60 runs and the latter 6 for 74.

Yorkshire's innings win was gained after Lancashire had enjoyed first use of the wicket. They were dismissed for 170, and the "Tykes" went in to hit the home attack in all directions. Sutcliffe contributed 135 and the innings terminated at 362 for 9 wickets declared. Verity bowled with remarkable effect when Lancashire endeavoured to save the innings defeat, and his 5 for 35 was responsible for Lancashire only getting to within five of the Yorkshire score.

Derbyshire lost on first innings to Warwick, but were decidedly fortunate in not meeting with a severe defeat. At the close of

MATCH

Bournemouth, Aug. 2. In a two-day match between Australia and Japan which opened here to-day, Japan took a lead of three matches to nil, and cannot now lose. Four singles and two doubles rubbers are scheduled, and already Japan has won two singles and one doubles.

In the opening match Jiro Sato of Japan beat Sproule 6-1, 3-6, 6-2, 6-1, and later Kuwabara outplayed Clemenger to win in straight sets 6-2, 6-2, 6-3.

Harry Hopman and Sproule teamed up for Australia in the first doubles encounter, but were defeated by Sato and Kuwabara after an interesting five-sets encounter, the scores in favour of the Japanese reading 6-3, 8-6, 3-6, 4-6, 6-4.—Reuter.

GERMANY'S
CLAIM TO OLYMPICSNext International Meeting May be
in Berlin

Before the tenth Olympiad has been completed in Los Angeles this year, the International Olympic Federation will have discussed the site and tentative date of the next international games. The meeting of this group, representing more than 50 nations will take place in Los Angeles during the festivities. Judging from the number of applicants from all over the world, it would seem almost as though the present generation would not again witness an Olympiad in America. In fact there are those who think that the games should always be held in Europe, and the long journey to Los Angeles will undoubtedly make up the minds of the majority of European nations to that effect. It seems almost certain that the games will be held in Berlin in 1936. Germany was to have held this meeting in 1916, but was prevented from conducting the games because of the war. The Germans had made great preparations for the 1916 affair and had built their beautiful stadium four years in advance. This structure is still available and has been modernized to meet every requirement.

QUICKENING INTEREST.

The interest in athletics in Germany in the last 10 years has multiplied tenfold. In fact it is well known that athletic interest amongst the Germans is keener than in any modern country including America. Other applicants who will make a strong bid for their people are Rome, Lisbon, Barcelona, Helsinki, Buenos Aires, Budapest, Tokyo and Dublin.

If the meet were to be decided on precedence of application, Germany would have the first call and Budapest, which was awarded the games for 1920 would get the meeting of 1940. Finland has been an applicant for the past 12 years, and in that case Helsinki would have the flags fluttering over their stadium in 1944. Italy has also been a persistent bidder and should fit in with the games being held in Rome four years later. Whereas Spain or Argentina may find the sons of the present Olympic champions defending the same title in either of those countries in 1952.

What Makes a Test
Cricketer?Natural
Ability
Essential

BY A. M. CRAWLEY

During the next few weeks we shall expect to see the team which is to go to Australia gradually choosing itself.

What are the qualities which go to make a Test match cricketer? Take the case of Sutcliffe.

Now Sutcliffe is unique. For the last ten years he has been indispensable as an England No. 1, and he is a very great Test match player, yet as far as natural ability goes he is no better than a good county player.

The only reason that he has risen above the ordinary rut of first-class cricketers is through his magnificent temperament. He has the patience of Job, a dogged fighting instinct, and is never in the least ruffled by his own mistakes. Now, of course, he has also a long experience.

Sutcliffe, then, is the exception that proves a rule: that among first-class players there are a certain number who have a natural ability which at once renders them potential Test match players.

"CLASS" PLAYERS.

Leaving out those whose names are already well established, Bakeswell, Paynter, Keeton, Pataudi, Kemp-Welch, Townsend, and Verity are a few who at once suggest themselves, and there are others less known who have just as much cricket in them.

There are, then, "class" players in cricket in exactly the same sense as there are "class" horses in the racing world. In a batsman the difference is easy to spot. The "class" player always appears to have plenty of time. He plays easily and loosely, and is always in the right position for his strokes.

It may be that he sees that ball more quickly than others—Capt. Nayudu gave that impression at Lord's the other day—or it may be just instinctive anticipation.

In a bowler the difference is probably less noticeable from the ringside, but is none the less essential. Watch the good stock bowlers of any county—Wensley, Mercer, Gregory, Locke, Matthews, Snary. They keep an excellent length, vary their pace a little, and are always trying to do something with the ball. But you do not expect to see them run through a side; they are not Test match bowlers as Tate or Larwood is.

DECEPTIVE AVERAGES.

A bowler who has the ability to become a great bowler is always coming off the pitch a little quicker than any batsman has a right to expect. He will get life out of a dull pitch. He will beat the best batsmen at some time or another.

If you are looking for a Test match bowler you do not count the number of wickets this or that man may take. You watch how he bowls to Jack Hobbs or Frank Woolley. You see him at the end of a long day on a batsman's wicket. Averages are deceptive, and many bowlers keep their places by getting out Nos. 9, 10, and 11 with great regularity.

Natural ability is, then, the first essential in a Test match player. He must be a cricketer to the bone. Once given that quality, I am firmly convinced, the rest will come, but only by self-discipline and hard work.

The young player who finds himself able to bowl or bat better than the average has next to learn to control his temperament. He must learn what risks he may and what he may not take. He must learn not to make mistakes which will cost him his wicket, or which will give runs away.

All that means hard work, and meanwhile he must lose none of his brilliance. Once a natural player has learnt to control his own ability he is in a position to become a great player. It is then that the test comes, for he must produce his best at the right moment, and be able to dominate a game in any circumstances.

It is not only consistency which counts, but consistency and command. It is match-winning and not match-saving which will bring back "the Ashes."—Daily Mail.

the Heads of Government Departments—whomsoever that comprehensive phrase may include—and certain "prominent non-officials" for the purpose of "advising" the government on matters of policy is not satisfactory to us.

The privilege of advising the government is no constitutional substitute for the right of criticizing it and if the proposed new Board is to bring in all these Heads of Government Departments, whose interests obviously lie in the avoidance of public criticism, then it must have a majority of non-official members, as the Sanitary Board has.

The best way of accomplishing this is to expand the Sanitary Board and to so amplify its functions that they will cover all the interests it is proposed to delegate to the suggested Public Health Advisory Board—and let me add that I don't much like that word "advisory." I would rather it were called the Public Health Board. Still, whether you call it a Public Health Board or a Sanitary Board is immaterial. The principle, as we non-officials see it, is that you cannot have two Boards functioning together, one divested of all authority except with regard to sanitation in the restricted sense of the term and the other consisting mainly of the Heads of Government Departments acting in a purely advisory capacity on matters of policy.

Board's Authority.

We hold that these public health reforms can be put into effect without undermining the privilege and authority of the Sanitary Board to hold a watching brief for the taxpayer. If that privilege and authority is called into question—if it is suggested that the public interest will be better served by removing the Public Health Department from the sphere of public criticism—then we shall protest that this is a flouting of public rights that we cannot be expected to regard otherwise than with grave concern.

I have spoken strongly on this particular matter because it is really the only cleavage that we feel cannot be bridged. We want to be helpful in these reform proposals, but we cannot assent to the directive and critical functions of the Sanitary Board being set aside in this arbitrary way. In other respects we are in general agreement with the progressive policy of the D.M.S.S. and will give our full support to the measures of reform that he advocates. I now move the resolution.

Mr. Wong Kwong-tin Second.

Mr. Wong Kwong-tin in seconding the motion, said:

It is with very great pleasure that I rise to second the motion just proposed by Mr. Champkin.

The Hon. D. M. S. S. is to be congratulated on his far-reaching proposals for reform. While heartily supporting his efforts to effect progress in health matters, I wish to associate myself with Mr. Champkin in stressing the importance of taking into consideration the taxpayer's point of view. Hence I would urge that an unofficial majority be maintained and that such unofficial majority be representative of all sections of the community.

One must also remember that, however much one might wish to spend money on improvements, the capacity of one's pockets has to be considered. Also, annoying restrictions which may mean the highest pitch of efficiency where sanitation is concerned may undermine the prosperity of the Colony, upon which our very existence depends.

Prosperity without health is, I admit, undesirable; but who would be content to have health alone without a certain amount of wealth, or what would it avail the healthy man if his prospect is starvation? This is the question the Hon. D. M. S. S. has to face, and it is the answer to his criticism that the Chinese community desires a Cadet, that is, one well versed in administration, to act as a buffer between the scientific man and the public.

Dr. Baste's Support.

In supporting the motion Dr. Baste said:

On reading over the D.M.S.S.'s recommendations for the Re-organization of the Medical and Sanitary Services in the copy submitted to the members of this Board, I cannot but feel that only the framework of a very extensive project is being laid before us for our consideration.

Such being the case it is very difficult for anyone to express his opinion on a scheme which is not only very extensive and elaborate but also very far-reaching in its ramifications. I have been given to understand however, that a very full and comprehensive report has been drawn up by the D.M.S.S. on this subject, and I would venture to suggest that the whole of this Report be laid on the table for the information of the members of this Board. The recommendations advocated by the D.M.S.S. involve radical and significant changes in the Medical and Sanitary Departments, and if the opinion of this Board is to be sought on such an important matter it is necessary that it should be furnished with more detailed particulars than that already submitted. With regard to the Public Health Advisory Board suggested in the recommendations it is not quite clearly stated whether this Board is to replace the present Sanitary Board or whether the two are to co-exist.

"Public Health Board."

I would suggest the name Public Health Board instead of Public Health Advisory Board, and I think that the interests of the Colony would be served best by having two distinct Heads for the Medical and Sanitary Departments. The co-ordination between these two departments as well as with other departments would then be brought about by the centralization of all the corresponding "Heads" under one administering officer who will be the president of the new Board. As the work of the President under the new scheme would be mainly administrative and co-ordinative it would be preferred that he should be a non-technical official who will at the same time have the advantage of serving as a necessary counterpoise for the uniform working of the Public Health Machinery. In the new Public Health Board the respective representatives of the Medical and Sanitary Departments will have seats, and the Head of the Sanitary Department may be the Medical Officer of Health, if it is thought that he should be an expert in Public Health work.

With regard to the unofficial members, I am of opinion that they should all be elected by public suffrage, and not partly elected and partly nominated by the Government, as it is the custom at present. If it is feared that the requisite number of elected members will not be available, the Government may then fill the vacancies by nominating its own unofficial members.

The Medical Department.

There is indeed much need that the Medical Department should be enlarged and rendered more efficient, and to my mind there is only one way by which this could be done satisfactorily and economically, i.e. by enlisting the services and co-operation of the Medical Faculty of the Hongkong University. It is common knowledge that in general, institutions connected with an university, whether directly or indirectly, always produce a much higher standard of work than those not so connected. Seeing that our local University is more or less fostered by the Government, it seems certainly anomalous that there should be a certain amount of duplication in the personnel and in the departments occurring within one and the same colony. It will not be a difficult matter for the Government and University authorities to come to an arrangement for the fusion of the various medical and scientific departments. The contribution of the University towards this amalgamation would be mainly in the form of personnel and that of the Government mainly material.

Investigation and Research.

The present Bacteriological Institute appears to be incongruous with the size and importance of a Colony such as ours, and the recommendation for an increase in the staff in the person of an Assistant Bacteriologist who will also act as Pathologist, is worthy of consideration. If the fusion above suggested could be brought about, then the Chief Government Bacteriologist and the Professor of Bacteriology could be represented in the one man, and the posts of Government Pathologist and lecturer in Pathology could be held by the same individual.

Medical or Curative Branch.

The pre-eminent work of the Curative Branch of the Medical Department would appear to me to be:

- The care of the health of lesser paid government employees.
- The care and treatment of the poor and destitute of the Colony.

If the Government Civil Hospital is to be rebuilt as recommended, it should I think be passed over to the University for the purpose of Clinical Instruction. It should be an easy matter for the University to staff such a hospital economically as there are as a rule a number of new graduates who are willing to work for a nominal salary and even for nothing, in order to acquire experience. The same annoyance or showed the slightest sign of losing his temper by so much as a wrinkled brow.

Then directly he started moulding the clay it seemed as though the whole studio radiated his dynamic personality. I felt an enormously powerful force playing about me. He worked very quickly and with severe concentration.

But there was nothing of the craftsman working with cold though perfect monotony about him. As he told me, "Every new piece is a problem, and I never know how it will turn out."

A Careful Worker. I had half expected him to do some sort of caricature of me. But no. He studied every feature line, and curve minutely, and took the greatest care to transmute me into clay exactly as I am, sacrificing nothing to make the model more artistic and less true to life.

And throughout the three weeks I sat to him, he was kindness itself. Although carried away by his work, he never forgot me, and gave me far more opportunities for resting than I really needed, at the same time endeavouring to relieve the strain of posing by cracking little jokes of his own.

I have heard it said that Epstein hungers after publicity. I do not believe it. I am certain that while he welcomes recognition in artistic circles as a true artist should, he cares not half a hoot for any kind of cheap and sensational appraisal or advertisement of his genius.

Finally, when I left Epstein, I endeavoured to sort out my impressions of him, and crystallise them in tabloid form. After much thought I should like to describe him as a man, essentially human, whose emotions, though tremendously strong, are under the absolute control of his artistic will.

It is not declared whether the G. C. H. is to be rebuilt on the same or at a different site, but the present locality has much to commend.

mend for, as it is situated in a very densely populated district, and if the whole of the present site together with the surrounding grounds etc. be made available, then there ought to be enough room for a model and up-to-date hospital. The idea of accommodating the investigative staff at one headquarters is sound, but I would suggest Pokfulam as a better site as affording ground for the stabling of the cattle used in the preparation of sera.

Medical Officers.

The number of medical officers required under the new scheme is certainly large but if the greater part of this personnel be recruited locally and if the unification project could be made to materialise, then the scheme would not appear to be so ambitious and so difficult as it would seem at first sight. I note however that no mention has been made on the problem of the treatment and segregation of the leprosy and tuberculous and considering the magnitude of the scheme, this omission is somewhat incompressible.

It seems that I have dwelt somewhat lengthily on this subject of the re-organisation of the Medical and Sanitary Services, but I feel it incumbent upon me as an elected member of this Board, and a medical man at that, that I should avail myself of this opportunity in presenting to you, for the consideration of the Government, certain suggestions which the D. M. S. S. may find useful to incorporate in his plans, when the time arrives for their materialisation.

In conclusion I wish to say that the policy of re-organising the Medical and Sanitary Services, is, generally speaking, sound, and deserves the serious consideration of the Government.

Dr. Li's Endorsement.

Dr. Li Shu-fan said: As a member of this Board representing the public including the Medical profession, I feel that it is fitting that I should make a few remarks upon the recommendations so ably worked out and submitted by the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services.

I heartily welcome the scheme of reform advocated—a reform which I think is long overdue.

I believe that when the scheme is appropriately carried out it will do much in obviating the duplication of personnel, machinery and equipment, with consequent all round improvement in service and curtailment of expenditure.

I think my colleagues agree with me that the part of the recommendations dealing with the re-adjustment of the various ordinances are essentially sound. It should merit the support of the Board and the adoption by Government.

As regards the recommendations under subheading "The Medical or Curative Branch" it appears to me that there is a rather complete provision of officers both in number and in qualification. But in view of the continual prevalence and the excessive mortality of tuberculosis in this Colony, I think it is imperative that one or more tuberculosis officers be provided.

Necessity for Economy.

Owing to the necessity for economy, co-operation and complete understanding in a scheme of this magnitude, I deem it advisable to take into consideration the services of the Hongkong University Clinical professors, viz. the professors of Medicine, surgery, and obstetrics. I believe the inclusion of these professors would entirely obviate the appointment of a separate set of specialists such as "a senior physician, a senior surgeon, a senior obstetrician" advocated in the recommendations.

I need hardly emphasise that the professors mentioned are highly qualified specialists and that they having been for sometime rendering valued and highly appreciated public services.

I understand that at present more than half of the work in the Government Civil Hospital is being conducted by the Clinical professors and their staff at a tremendous saving of expenditure to the Government. I have reasons to believe that their work was conscientious and above reproach. Furthermore, I understand there is an agreement between the Government and the Rockefeller Foundation whereby the Clinical professors are compelled to remain at the Government Civil Hospital. As a matter of fact the annual donation from the Foundation was a source of substantial and continual help both to the University and the Government. Besides, apart from the G. C. H. there is no other Clinical teaching centre for the medical students. Hence I mention that if it is for no other reason, than that of upholding the privilege and duty of Hongkong, as being the beacon-light of education, especially in medicine, in this part of the world, we are honour-bound to give serious consideration to the University and its students. Under the same subheading

"The Medical or Curative Branch" I think that sufficient recognition has not been accorded to the fact that there are in the Colony a number of highly qualified specialists who may be willing to co-operate either in an honorary capacity or on part-time engagement.

Part-time Specialists.

I should like to point out that the usual practice of hospitals and infirmaries in Great Britain of appointing local specialists to the staffs on part-time or entirely honorary appointments has been a dependable source of economy and satisfaction.

In regard to the clause "Super-numeraries to the extent of 20% etc." I believe this estimate was based on a highly salaried European staff of large numbers who must necessarily go on long leave every few years. Here again, may we not wisely economise by utilizing local University graduates or local men who hold British University diplomas. I am entirely in accord with the recommendation that a modern Infectious Disease Hospital and Quarantine Station be built. I earnestly hope that when sanctioned it will be built in a less objectionable quarter than Kennedy Town, unless trade nuisances in the vicinity of the present hospital are permanently abated.

With reference to the recommendations on "Medical relief", I am glad to notice that contemplation was made for extending the Kowloon Hospital for another 500 patients and the rebuilding of the G. C. H. with an accommodation for another 500.

But both in the extension and in the rebuilding of the hospitals I take this opportunity to emphasize that due regard should be made for the average tax-payer by providing sufficient general ward accommodations. The practice of providing paying private wards may be quite necessary in by-gone days but owing to the existence of a number of excellent private and semi-private hospitals at the present time I consider it unnecessary and undesirable for the Government to provide private wards for paying members of the public. I think it is very hard and unfair to turn away needy patients as is being frequently done in Government hospitals for want of general ward accommodation while at the same time these hospitals are occupied with a number of private wards.

I understand at present the G. C. H. does not as a rule admit tuberculosis patients. I earnestly hope that provision will be made for them in the future hospitals unless a sanatorium is provided.

Mr. Bellamy's Comments.

Mr. L. C. F. Bellamy said: The task of condensing within the compass of 6 paragraphs the unanimous views of the six unofficial members of this Board on a matter of such importance as the recommendations now before us is a very difficult one and I think Mr. Champkin is to be congratulated on his effort to co-ordinate our various views. It would, however, be very strange if the motion did not contain, here and there, features with which one or more members might be slightly out of sympathy. That is my position regarding that portion of paragraph 2 which deals with the vice-chairmanship of the Public Health Board. I am not convinced that there exists in the Colony a more suitable man for this position than the Hon. the D. M. S. S.

Coming to clause 5, which recommends that memoranda of individual members on the recommendations of the D. M. S. S. should be forwarded to Government, I may say that in my very brief memorandum I laid stress on the need for every member of this Board being supplied with a copy of Dr. Wellington's full and elaborate report of two years ago. I regret very much that this request has not been complied with as I believe that a study of his full report is indispensable to a thorough appreciation by members of this Board of the justification and adequate grounds for Dr. Wellington's recommendations.

What I like best about this motion is Mr. Champkin's happy reference in clause 6 to the policy of Public Health reform now foreshadowed for Hongkong and I hope that no avoidable loss of time will occur to delay the putting of

This policy of reform into effect. I support the motion.

Mr. M. K. Lo's Comments.

Mr. M. K. Lo said:
My colleagues have already dealt with the various aspects of the D.M.S.S.'s recommendations so fully that I feel it is unnecessary for me to make any lengthy remarks on the motion now before the Board. I should, however, like to deal with paragraph 2 of the motion in so far as it refers to the Vice-Chairmanship of the proposed Public Health Board. It will be seen that the unanimous view of the unofficial members is that the Constitution of the Sanitary Board be enlarged in order that it may function as a Public Health Board with the personnel suggested by the D.M.S.S. for his Public Health Advisory Board, except that the Vice-Chairman shall be a non-technical man, preferably the Secretary for Chinese Affairs.

In view of certain newspaper comments on the D.M.S.S.'s recommendations I should like to state publicly my own reasons for concurring in the terms of clause 2 of the motion. To begin with, I say at once that my reasons have nothing whatever to do with "the old question of Chinese susceptibility" as one paper has put it. The fact that this motion represents the unanimous view of all the unofficial members, including three who are not Chinese, is at least suggestive that the reason of clause 2 of the motion must be something else.

The Buffer Question.

In regard to this matter, the D.M.S.S. observes, "In Hongkong because of the desire of certain Chinese to have a buffer interposed between them and the professional hygienist it is recommended that until public opinion is more educated on matters of hygiene and sanitation the post of Head of the Sanitary Department shall be held by a Cadet Officer who is a Chinese scholar." I say frankly that I do not share this desire, and that it has nothing to do with the reasons for my concurring in clause 2 of the motion.

I venture to quote the following paragraphs from a memorandum which I submitted to the Head of the Sanitary Department in connexion with the D.M.S.S.'s recommendations:

"10. On the 'Expert versus Layman' issue, the more I ponder over the matter, the greater the difficulty I experience in coming to a decisive conclusion. But my mind is definitely inclined towards the view that, in practice, the question as to whether the H.S.D. should or should not be a public health expert, fades into insignificance when compared with the vital question as to whether the holder of the office of H.S.D. does or does not possess these qualities which are essential to the occupant of that post.

"11. If the holder of the office possesses the necessary administrative qualifications; if he is endowed with a broad vision and comprehensive outlook; if he is accessible and is willing and ready to give a sympathetic consideration to representations placed before him, then—whether or not he be further 'blessed' with, or 'afflicted' by, the additional knowledge of an expert—he is, as I submit, the right man in the right place.

Drawbacks to Expert.

"12. Obviously the only danger of an expert becoming H.S.D. is that his outlook is unduly coloured by the very speciality of his knowledge; that the very profundity of his specialized learning might render him blind to the reality of everyday problems and practical politics; that, in short, he might be too much of a bigot to be a successful administrator.

"13. Knowing the present D.M.S.S. as I am privileged to know him, I have no misgiving whatsoever if he were to be-

BRITISH FILMS IN FAR EAST.BIGGER PROPORTION TO BE SHOWN

London, Aug. 2.

A larger proportion of British films will be exhibited in the Far East, as a result of a five year contract to take the whole of the British film output of the Gaumont British Corporation, signed by Mr. Osborn, Managing Director of the Associated British Pictures Corporation, which controls 175 Far Eastern cinemas.

It is understood that instead of nearly 100 per cent. American films being shown, 80 per cent. will be British.

The Associated Corporation is also purchasing 25 British talking machines, replacing existing equipment in two studios in Hongkong and Shanghai for making Chinese and Japanese Talkies.—Reuter.

come the H.S.D. The advantages of his becoming H.S.D., such as simplicity, unity of control and increase of co-ordination, are suggested in his recommendations.

It must be borne in mind that both the D.M.S.S. and some official representing the Sanitary Department will sit as members on the new Public Health Board as envisaged by us. The very reasons which no doubt prompted the D.M.S.S. to suggest, in his recommendations, that the Hon. the Colonial Secretary should preside over the meetings of his Advisory Board, suggest to us that, in the absence of the Colonial Secretary, it is equally desirable to have a non-technical man to be Chairman, in order to secure that co-ordination between the Medical and Health Department as represented by the D.M.S.S. and the Sanitary Department as represented by an official of that Department, which seems so essential in the interests of the general public.

I hope that I have made myself perfectly plain, and with these few remarks I signify my complete concurrence with the motion.

The Chairman Sums Up.

The Chairman (Mr. G. R. Sayer). "The mover has told us and I understand it to be the case that the motion has the unanimous support of the unofficial members of the Board.

"I do not propose to offer any comments on the resolution, nor should I vote for or against it, and I fancy my Official colleagues will consider it proper to adopt the same course. What I do propose is to put this motion to the meeting and to take this opportunity of offering my acknowledgment to the Unofficials for the trouble, care, and attention that have been given to this matter. It is a matter of great importance and you are to be congratulated on arriving at a unanimous view, and I am sure your views will be of great assistance to the Government in deciding whether any further re-organization is necessary or desirable."

The motion was then put to the meeting, and carried. All the Unofficial members voted in favour of the motion, while the Official members of the Board did not vote.

"Why, yes, I'm sure we didn't hear anything. Is something wrong? Has any thing happened?"

Phillips' tone and manner were completely convincing. With a shrug and noncommittal exclamation the policeman dismissed them and entered the building, followed by his companion. Neither Cherry nor Phillips gave the younger man a second glance.

They hurried across the street to the reader. As Dan was starting the engine the girl said, "Oh, Dan—my purse!"

"Can't go back now," he told her. "Not with that flat-foot there! After I get you in a doctor's office I'll come back for it."

Cherry's arm burned painfully. Two great tear drops, unbidden, slid down her cheek. Firmly she gripped her teeth, resolving not to cry out.

Twice Dan's eyes left the road to catch side-long glimpses of the girl's white face. Each time he increased the roadster's speed. Ten minutes later he was ushering her into a physician's office.

"It's her left arm," he told the doctor. "Gun went off accidentally. We tried to stop the bleeding with a tourniquet."

For another 10 minutes there was activity—tense and efficient—in the small office. Cherry's courage foresaw her as the wound was probed and cleansed. The bullet had torn the flesh of her upper arm in an ugly, jagged line but had not lodged there.

Weak from fright and from loss of blood, Cherry clung to Dan's hand while the doctor sewed the torn skin in place.

"A quarter of an inch deeper and this would have been serious," the physician told them. His name was Dr. Ryland and, according to the framed diploma from medical school which hung on the wall, he had been practicing less than four years. "The bullet barely missed an artery. Your tourniquet was a splendid idea. It might have saved her life."

"How's that now?" he went on, addressing the girl, "Is it too tight?"

"It's all right."

Already the arm was less painful but in consternation Cherry watched Dr. Ryland apply the last bit of bandaging. They had cut away the sleeve of her sweater. The new beige skirt was soiled and spotted and so was her coat. For the first time Cherry thought of going home. Her mother—her father—how on earth could she face them?

"I thought you said it didn't hurt so much?" It was Phillips speaking.

She tried to smile. "It doesn't." "Then what's the matter?" "Nothing," she told him. "Just nothing."

The bandage was finished and Dr. Ryland stood back. "It will be painful," he told the girl, "but I don't think you're going to have any trouble with it. The dressing will need to be changed. What you need now is quiet. Lots of rest—"

He talked on until Phillips interrupted. "Listen, Doc," he said, "could I use your phone for a minute?"

"Why, certainly."

Dan picked up the instrument, gave a number. "City desk," he said brusquely and then a moment later, "Dates? This is Phillips. Say, I've just been talking to Inez Malay. Gave me a good story. Shall I—WHAT? what did you say—?

Both of the listeners turned. There was something in Dan's question that was electrifying. Spellbound, they watched and seemed to see the youth's whole body go limp.

"No!" he exclaimed. "Oh, my God—no!" The words were not a denial, not even disbelief. Slowly he turned and set down the instrument.

SHIPPING APPEAL SURPRISE

ASSESSORS GIVE RULING

The Full Court appeal, the parties to which are the Nippon Yusen Kaisha and the China Navigation Company was re-opened this morning, following advice given by the naval assessors that the Kiangsu had been navigated correctly.

The assessors' advice came as a surprise, for the assessor in the Lower Court had given contrary advice and the Chief Justice, Sir Joseph Kemp, had ruled that the Kiangsu had been in the wrong by not stopping when she heard the Toyooka Maru's whistle.

Mr. Eldon Potter, K. C., and Mr. F. C. Jenkin, K. C., for the China Navigation Company accepted this ruling in the Court of Appeal and had not disputed the judgment of Sir Joseph Kemp on the point.

Counsel for both parties appeared before Sir Joseph Kemp, Sir Peter Grain and Mr. Justice Wood in Chambers yesterday and were informed of the assessor's advice. They were then ordered to appear in open Court this morning for further argument.

Mr. Sheldon, for the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, asked if the respondents were going to reply on the assessor's finding.

Mr. Potter said he was not going to dispute the advice of the assessor, but as he had not argued the matter in the Court below, he did not intend to argue the facts in the Court of Appeal.

The argument of the parties was entirely legal and technical in nature. Mr. Potter contended that the captain of the Kiangsu must be judged, not on events as they subsequently transpired, but on the action which a competent officer would take in the circumstances. Judgment was again reserved.

A dog belonging to the Hon. Mr. J. Owen Hughes, of 402, The Peak, is reported to have bitten Ng Shui-sang, a Sanitary Department coolie, who was walking outside "Yauwland" yesterday. The man was bitten on the right leg and was taken to the Government Civil Hospital for treatment.

DEVELOPMENT IN MANCHURIA

Ambitious Scheme for Capital

NEW RAILWAYS

(Special to "Telegraph")

Changchun, Aug. 3. A Town Planning Committee established in Changchun is now working on a five-year building programme.

It is understood that the scheme calls for the construction of accommodation at Changchun for the housing over a million and a half inhabitants.

It is noteworthy that the present population is estimated at not more than forty-three thousand, of which 15,775 are Japanese or Koreans. —Reuter.

Later. The Manchukuo Ministry of Communications has, according to reports, approved a project for the construction of several railways to tap the territory immediately to the north of Harbin.

RAILWAY COMPLETED.

A message from Tsitsihar announced that the Taonan-Solun Railway, the construction of which was commenced two years ago by the Mukden Government has now been completed making it possible to exploit the adjoining territory.

It is expected that when peace is restored to Manchuria, many settlers will take up land in that region. —Reuter.

The report which was subsequently made to the police stated that motor lorry 2967, which was being driven by Yim Kau, was travelling along Prince Edward Road yesterday morning from
